'Pressure Seems Off'

Lumumba's Aides Hold Off Threats To Arrest Whites

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Aides of Patrice Lumumba today held off carrying out their threat to round up all whites in Stanleyville and behead some of them. The ex-premier was still in jail after the deadline they set for freeing him.

One Western official here said, "The pressure seems to be off for the moment."

The rebels had threatened to arrest all Europeans "and cut off some of the heads" of Belgian hostages if Lumumba was not set free by 3 p.m. Friday.

United Nations reports from the area said no whites had been arrested so far in Stanleyville itself. But an undetermined number of arrests was reported at Aru, a town on the borders of Oriental Province and Uganda.

The U.N. commander in Stanleyville, Ethiopian Gen. Mengasha Iyassu, conferred this morning with Gen. Victor Lundula, former commander in chief of the Congolese army under Lumumba, who now runs the fanatically Lumumbist military police unit holding Stanleyville.

About 100 Belgian men, women and children were sheltered overnight in the Stanleyville schoolhouse taken over as a refuge by the United Nations.

Some experts here believed the rebels were having second thoughts about carrying out their threat.

Lumumba is being held in a military camp at Thysville, closely guarded by the troops of the Congolese Army Commander, Col. Joseph Mobutu.

Mobutu has issued no comment on the ultimatum, but it was believed most unlikely he would be persuaded to set Lumumba free.

U. N. forces in Stanleyville were ordered to resist with bullets if necessary to protect the white population.

Consular officials from five Western embassies — the United States, British, French, Greek and Portuguese — flew to Stanleyville under U. N. protection. They will make arrangements for protection of their citizens and a possible mass airlift out of the province.

Stanleyville, 775 airline miles northeast of Leopoldville and capital of Oriental Province, is ruled by three men—Lumumba's former secretary, Bernard Salumu, Lumumba's brother, Louis, and Communist-leaning Antoine Gizenga, former Congo deputy premier.

U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold gave orders for the U. N. force of 1,800 Ethiopians in Stanleyville to use force if necessary to protect the 1,000 white Europeans in Stanleyville. Eighty per cent of the whites are Belgians. Two American missionaries are among the whites trapped in the isolated city.

About 1,000 more whites, including about 200 Americans, are scattered through Oriental Province. Most of them are Protestant missionaries in remote bush missions. But those outside the capital were believed in no immediate danger since pro-Lumumba police and soldiers control only parts of the interior.

On Congo Crisis

U.N. Council Sets Emergency Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —The Security Council set up an emergency weekend meeting on the Congo today. A showdown seemed near between the U. N. command and supporters of Patrice Lumumba in Stanleyville who have threatened to behead Belgian hostages.

The 11-nation council scheduled the afternoon's session to push toward a vote on a Soviet resolution demanding immediate release of imprisoned ex-Premier Lumumba and a Western resolution asking fair treatment for all prisoners in the Congo.

Diplomats expected: (1) The council would vote down the Soviet resolution; (2) The Soviet Union would veto the rival resolution of Argentina, Britain, Italy and the United States, and (3) The crisis then would be taken up in the 99-nation General Assembly.

The U.N. force in the Congo was braced for a possible clash in Stanleyville, capital of Oriental Province, with military units loyal to Lumumba lieutenants.

The Stanleyville authorities threatened to arrest all the 2,000 or so whites in the province and kill some of the Belgians unless Lumumba was liberated within a 48-hour period, which ran out Friday night.

Ethiopian U. N. troops in the province had orders from Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to protect the Europeans by force, if necessary.

Troops of Col. Joseph Mobutu, Congolese strongman, arrested Lumumba Dec. 1 on a warrant issued by President Joseph Kasavubu charging him with usurping power and inciting soldiers to mutiny.

U. S. delegate James J. Wadsworth told the Security Council Friday night, "There is no question as to the right of the Congolese authorities to place Mr. Lumumba under arrest."

He charged the Soviet Union was seeking to dominate the Congo by discrediting Hammarskjold, undermining Kasavubu's authority and disarming Mobutu's army. He said the United States would not give way to "these Soviet pressures."

Recipient For 1961

Corning Glass Aide To Get Victor Bleininger Award

Dr. Eugene Cornelius Sullivan, honorary board chairman and a director of the Corning Glass Works at Corning, N. Y., has been named the 1961 recipient of the Albert Victor Bleininger Memorial Award "for distinguished achievement in the field of ceramics."

Dr. Sullivan's selection was announced today by Dr. Edwin Ruh, chairman of the Pittsburgh Section of the American Ceramic Society, which presents the award.

He will receive the medal and scroll representing the award, the highest honor conferred in the United States for ceramic achievement, at the annual award dinner March 10 at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

It is the second consecutive year that a Sullivan has won the honor. Last year's winner was John D. Sullivan, technical director of the Battelle Memorial Institute in Columbus.

Often called "the founder of organized research in glass," Dr. Sullivan began his work with Corning Glass in 1908. His problem was not only to devise useful new glass compositions but to develop radical new manufacturing and testing procedures and new markets for glass.

He is best known for the development of boro-silicate glass, such as those used in Pyrex brand cooking and dinnerware and the chemical glassware. His original laboratory with 1,200 square feet now has grown into the Eugene C. Sullivan Research Laboratories with

Republican Hinted For Cabinet Post

Dillon Mentioned As Possibility For Treasury Secretary

BULLETIN

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy's headquarters kept mum today regarding reports he has decided to name Republican C. Douglas Dillon, now undersecretary of state, to the Cabinet as secretary of the Treasury.

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy's headquarters today held open the possibility of his picking Republican C. Douglas Dillon, now undersecretary of state, to be secretary of the Treasury.

"I can neither confirm nor deny that," said Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, in response to questions about reports that the president-elect has decided on the 51-year-old Dillon for the Cabinet post.

Kennedy arrived from Washington Friday night with his wife, Jacqueline and their two-weeks-old son, John Fitzgerald Jr. The president-elect plans to spend the weekend at the Atlantic shore home of his parents. Mrs. Kennedy and their two children expect to stay on through the Christmas holidays.

There was no comment from Kennedy on the continuing welter of speculation about his choices for the seven posts in his Cabinet yet to be filled.

Salinger would say nothing about a report that Kennedy had eliminated Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., from a list of possibilities for the post of secretary of State.

In New York Friday, the Rev. Dr. Wesley A. Hotchkis, a Protestant leader in race relations and general sceretary of the American Missionary Association, urged Kennedy to drop any consideration of naming Fulbright to that position.

Gosney, Wife To Attend Kennedy's Inaugural

Don R. Gosney of Columbiana, county Democratic chairman, has received an invitation to attend the inauguration ceremonies of President-elect John F. Kennedy next month at Washington.

Gosney and his wife will leave for Washington about Jan. 17 or 18. They will stay with Rep. and Mrs. Wayne L. Hays.

New Orleans Integration Future Dims

Segregationists' Pressure Threatens Removal Of Whites

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — The future of public school integration here remained uncertain today as segregationist pressure threatened to force removal of all white students at the integrated William Frantz School.

Segregationists could look back on a week—the third of integrated classes here—that saw white attendance at Frantz drop from a high of 23, reached Tuesday, to eight Friday. One Negro girl attends the school.

No whites are attending the other integrated school, McDonogh No. 19, where three Negro girls are in the first grade.

Mrs. N. H. Sand, president of Save Our Schools, whose organization has been driving white children to Frantz, said harassment—mainly in the form of telephone calls—had spread to members of her group. She said the calls included threats on life and property and obscene remarks.

Charles L. Barnett of Shreveport, president of the Louisiana Association of Citizens Councils, asked the legislature's Un-American Activities Committee to investigate 12 persons whose automobiles have been used to drive Frantz students to school.

The white students that did show up Friday were escorted by federal deputy marshals.

Marion McKinley, a Baptist seminary student, withdrew his children after a second rock-throwing attack on his home. He said he feared for his son's and his daughter's safety.

Marvin Chandler, another Baptist seminary student, said he kept his children home because of harassment.

Mrs. Delma Windham and Everett L. Poling were given 24-hour police protection because of threats against their families' lives.

Police Supt. Joseph I. Giarruso said that none of the persons who say they have been threatened have given evidence that would justify arrests.

More Than 12 Dead

Snowstorm Deals West New Blows

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—A mighty snowstorm, already blamed for more than a dozen deaths, swung fresh punches today at a sector stretching from the central Rockies over much of the Southwest.

Weekend Weather To Be Windy And Cold

Blustery winds and continued cold with snow flurries make up the wintry weather outlook for the weekend in the East Liverpool area.

The mercury may drop to 18 to 24 tonight after a day's high ranges of 32 to 38. Friday night's low was 22 degrees downtown. Sunday will be colder with a possibility of flurries.

The icy storm isolated towns in several states, shattered communication lines, halted travel and knocked out power lines.

El Paso, at the New Mexico border, was buried in 6 to 8 inches of snow.

Marfa, Tex., 200 miles east of El Paso, has been isolated for two days. Ham radio operators made contact Friday night and learned conditions in the area were critical.

"We're in rough shape," Jim O'Brien, publisher of the Big Bend Sentinel told the El Paso Times. "Our phones are out and its hard to say when the utility company is going to get our power fully restored."

Traffic snarled in an around the El Paso area and across the line into New Mexico.

The storm slackened its fury in New Mexico and Arizona while dumping more than six inches at Canon City in south central Colorado since noon Friday. There was 11-15 inches reported at Wolf Creek Pass and two inches dropped in the Denver area during the night.

Light snow in the Arizona mountains was expected. Northern roads, although still icy, were open. The storm activity dropped off in New Mexico and improved weather conditions were forecast for the weekend.

At least five deaths in New Mexico and eight in Texas had been attributed directly or indirectly to the weather.

Temperatures dipped into the lower 20s as the storm smashed eastward from El Paso into the heart of southwest Texas.

Other parts of the country also came in for a taste of winter with snow, freezing rains and frigid temperatures.

Trouble Piles Up For Castro On 3 'Fronts'

Issue Of Communist Infiltration Seen As Playing Central Role

HAVANA (AP) — Trouble piled up today for Prime Minister Fidel Castro on the labor, church and military fronts with the issue of Communist infiltration of his regime playing a central role.

Shouts of "Cuba yes, Russia no" came from demonstrators in front of the presidential palace—and they got away with it.

Anti-Communist leaders of the Electrical Workers Union took a bold and daring stand by boycotting a Communist-managed union general assembly, which voted to demand their ouster.

In Santa Clara five Cuban men were sentenced to death by a firing squad for trying to hijack a Cuban airliner in flight over Cienfuegos Thursday night. They were thwarted when the pilot crash-landed. One woman defendant was sentenced to 30 years, another woman acquitted. One of the condemned men escaped in the landing and is still at large.

The palace demonstration was by members of the Electric Workers Union.

The union leaders' defiant refusal to bow to the Red-leaning Confederation of Cuban Workers (CTC), which demanded their ouster, could have troublesome repercussions for Castro in the labor sector—mostly docile up to now.

Several hundred members of the union marched on the presidential palace Friday night, protesting what they called Communist infiltration of their union.

Led by their popular secretary-general, Amaury Fraginals, the shouting workers demanded an audience with Castro or President Osvaldo Dorticos.

The peaceful demonstration broke up quickly after a commission headed by Fraginals was admitted to the palace. But informants said the commission never got to see Dorticos, as promised, or even his secretary, Luis Buch.

Turn Back Rightists At Aide's Home

French Chief Defies Rioters, Pleads For Support Of His Plan

ALGIERS (AP) — Riot police firing tear gas grenades today drove back howling mobs of 5,000 rightists attempting to storm the official residence of President Charles De Gaulle's representative in strife-torn Algeria.

Police attacked as the demonstrators marched on the Palais d'Ete, residence of Jean Morin. Tough riot squads stopped a similar attempt Friday.

Riot police and army troops also rushed to battle stations in Oran, Algeria's second largest city, where European settlers massed in the streets shouting, "De Gaulle to the stake. Algeria is French."

In Algiers police estimated up to 10,000 persons surged through the streets to protest De Gaulle's arrival in Algeria to garner support for his home-rule plan.

But police maintained the rioters were a violent, vocal minority of the city's 400,000 residents.

As yet no leader has appeared to match ex-paratrooper Pierre Lagaillarde, co-leader of last January's strong and almost successful uprising and now a fugitive reported in Spain.

These rioters were reckless and disorganized as they spread a savage trail of violence across the city, shouting for De Gaulle's blood.

Reports from Oran, 220 miles southwest of Algiers, said that a crowd growing larger by the hour had gone on a rampage and fought police in the center of the seaport city.

Mobs reportedly pillaged business places and invaded offices of the city's two newspapers, Echo d'Oran and The Oran Republican.

One report said that a commando squad of demonstrators was bent on attacking the central police headquarters and another that skirmishes had broken out between Moslems and Europeans.

The city's economy was paralyzed by strike and disorder, and public transport was at a standstill.

A group of Oran Moslems carrying a banner reading "Vive De Gaulle" ran head-on into a group carrying a placard declaring "Algeria is French." They fought briefly. Then both sides fell back.

Shortly after noon, quiet was reported restored in Oran.

Demonstrators in Algiers tossed fire bombs at machine gun emplacements and at tanks, and drew tear gas in reply. A gasoline-filled bottle hurled against a parked car set the car afire and spread flames to the terrace of a cafe. The crowd applauded scornfully as a fire truck rolled up to put out the fire.

But noontime brought a lull in Algiers too.

Friday's toll of injured was put at about 100.

A spokesman from Morin's office told newsmen that riot police had been given permission to use concussion grenades if necessary. These are not considered dangerous unless someone receives a direct hit.

Thousands of Moslems roared a welcome to De Gaulle at Cherchell, site of a French military school, and cries of "Vive De Gaulle" rose around him in waves.

De Gaulle defied the rioters and pleaded with the French army and the silent Moslem masses to support his home-rule plan for strife-torn Algeria.

2 Of 8 Safe In Leap From Crashed B52

BARRE, Vt. (AP)—Two of the eight-man crew of a B-52 jet bomber which crashed in flames Friday night have been found and an intensive search was underway today for the others who were believed to have parachuted from the craft.

Maj. Karl E. Keyes, 43, radar navigator, landed in the vicinity of Schroon Lake, N.Y., early today and gave the first word of the crash.

Several hours later, Capt. William T. Combs, 43, of Bristol, Va., pilot of the bomber, reported he landed in the same general area.

Westover Air Force Base, Mass., where the bomber was based, said it received a telephone call from Capt. Combs saying he had landed safely.

Real Estate Tax Increase Of 8 To 10% Seen By 1963

Property taxes will average between 8 and 10 per cent higher when the countywide reappraisal program has been completed and the new valuations set, County Auditor Kenneth Bell told the Lions Club Friday afternoon at the Travelers Hotel.

Discussing the revaluation now under way on residential property, Bell said the first collections on the new assessments probably won't be made until January 1963, for the 1962 tax year.

Some valuations will be higher than at present and others will be lower, depending on the locality and the factors determing the valuations, he explained.

Some $3 million in property was added when field crews made surveys in Salem, and additional property in residential areas outside East Liverpool is expected to be put on the rolls, he continued. Bell explained some property owners have been paying a tax only on the land although they have been living in new homes for several years.

All property owners will be notified of the new assessments and will be entitled to file protests if they believe the new valuations are too high, the auditor continued.

Even when the field work is completed, much work remains to be done before the assessment notices are mailed, he said, explaining that field reviews of some Cleveland appraisal firm, which is serving as an advisor, and by the State Tax Commission.

After the reviews, abstracts will be prepared and sent to Columbus for final approval by the commission.

To make it more convenient, Bell said he expects to arrange visits in each community so that property owners will have an opportunity to check the records on tax assessments in their areas. In previous years, it has been necessary

BARRE, Vt. (AP)—Two of the eight-man crew of a B-52 jet bomber which crashed in flames Friday night have been found and an intensive search was underway today for the others who were believed to have parachuted from the craft.

Maj. Karl E. Keyes, 43, radar navigator, landed in the vicinity of Schroon Lake, N.Y., early today and gave the first word of the crash.

Several hours later, Capt. William T. Combs, 43, of Bristol, Va., pilot of the bomber, reported he landed in the same general area.

Lions Hear County Auditor

Real Estate Tax Increase Of 8 To 10% Seen By 1963

Property taxes will average between 8 and 10 per cent higher when the countywide reappraisal program has been completed and the new valuations set, County Auditor Kenneth Bell told the Lions Club Friday afternoon at the Travelers Hotel.

Discussing the revaluation now under way on residential property, Bell said the first collections on the new assessments probably won't be made until January 1963, for the 1962 tax year.

Some valuations will be higher than at present and others will be lower, depending on the locality and the factors determing the valuations, he explained.

Some $3 million in property was added when field crews made surveys in Salem, and additional property in residential areas outside East Liverpool is expected to be put on the rolls, he continued. Bell explained some property owners have been paying a tax only on the land although they have been living in new homes for several years.

All property owners will be notified of the new assessments and will be entitled to file protests if they believe the new valuations are too high, the auditor continued.

Even when the field work is completed, much work remains to be done before the assessment notices are mailed, he said, explaining that field reviews of some Cleveland appraisal firm, which is serving as an advisor, and by the State Tax Commission.

After the reviews, abstracts will be prepared and sent to Columbus for final approval by the commission.

To make it more convenient, Bell said he expects to arrange visits in each community so that property owners will have an opportunity to check the records on tax assessments in their areas. In previous years, it has been necessary

Issue Of Communist Infiltration Seen As Playing Central Role

HAVANA (AP) — Trouble piled up today for Prime Minister Fidel Castro on the labor, church and military fronts with the issue of Communist infiltration of his regime playing a central role.

Shouts of "Cuba yes, Russia no" came from demonstrators in front of the presidential palace—and they got away with it.

Anti-Communist leaders of the Electrical Workers Union took a bold and daring stand by boycotting a Communist-managed union general assembly, which voted to demand their ouster.

In Santa Clara five Cuban men were sentenced to death by a firing squad for trying to hijack a Cuban airliner in flight over Cienfuegos Thursday night. They were thwarted when the pilot crash-landed. One woman defendant was sentenced to 30 years, another woman acquitted. One of the condemned men escaped in the landing and is still at large.

The palace demonstration was by members of the Electric Workers Union.

The union leaders' defiant refusal to bow to the Red-leaning Confederation of Cuban Workers (CTC), which demanded their ouster, could have troublesome repercussions for Castro in the labor sector—mostly docile up to now.

Several hundred members of the union marched on the presidential palace Friday night, protesting what they called Communist infiltration of their union.

Led by their popular secretary-general, Amaury Fraginals, the shouting workers demanded an audience with Castro or President Osvaldo Dorticos.

The peaceful demonstration broke up quickly after a commission headed by Fraginals was admitted to the palace. But informants said the commission never got to see Dorticos, as promised, or even his secretary, Luis Buch.

Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard will preside.

Turn Back Rightists At Aide's Home

French Chief Defies Rioters, Pleads For Support Of His Plan

ALGIERS (AP) — Riot police firing tear gas grenades today drove back howling mobs of 5,000 rightists attempting to storm the official residence of President Charles De Gaulle's representative in strife-torn Algeria.

Police attacked as the demonstrators marched on the Palais d'Ete, residence of Jean Morin. Tough riot squads stopped a similar attempt Friday.

Riot police and army troops also rushed to battle stations in Oran, Algeria's second largest city, where European settlers massed in the streets shouting, "De Gaulle to the stake. Algeria is French."

In Algiers police estimated up to 10,000 persons surged through the streets to protest De Gaulle's arrival in Algeria to garner support for his home-rule plan.

But police maintained the rioters were a violent, vocal minority of the city's 400,000 residents.

As yet no leader has appeared to match ex-paratrooper Pierre Lagaillarde, co-leader of last January's strong and almost successful uprising and now a fugitive reported in Spain.

These rioters were reckless and disorganized as they spread a savage trail of violence across the city, shouting for De Gaulle's blood.

Reports from Oran, 220 miles southwest of Algiers, said that a crowd growing larger by the hour had gone on a rampage and fought police in the center of the seaport city.

Mobs reportedly pillaged business places and invaded offices of the city's two newspapers, Echo d'Oran and The Oran Republican.

One report said that a commando squad of demonstrators was bent on attacking the central police headquarters and another that skirmishes had broken out between Moslems and Europeans.

The city's economy was paralyzed by strike and disorder, and public transport was at a standstill.

A group of Oran Moslems carrying a banner reading "Vive De Gaulle" ran head-on into a group carrying a placard declaring "Algeria is French." They fought briefly. Then both sides fell back.

Shortly after noon, quiet was reported restored in Oran.

Demonstrators in Algiers tossed fire bombs at machine gun emplacements and at tanks, and drew tear gas in reply. A gasoline-filled bottle hurled against a parked car set the car afire and spread flames to the terrace of a cafe. The crowd applauded scornfully as a fire truck rolled up to put out the fire.

But noontime brought a lull in Algiers too.

Friday's toll of injured was put at about 100.

A spokesman from Morin's office told newsmen that riot police had been given permission to use concussion grenades if necessary. These are not considered dangerous unless someone receives a direct hit.

Thousands of Moslems roared a welcome to De Gaulle at Cherchell, site of a French military school, and cries of "Vive De Gaulle" rose around him in waves.

De Gaulle defied the rioters and pleaded with the French army and the silent Moslem masses to support his home-rule plan for strife-torn Algeria.

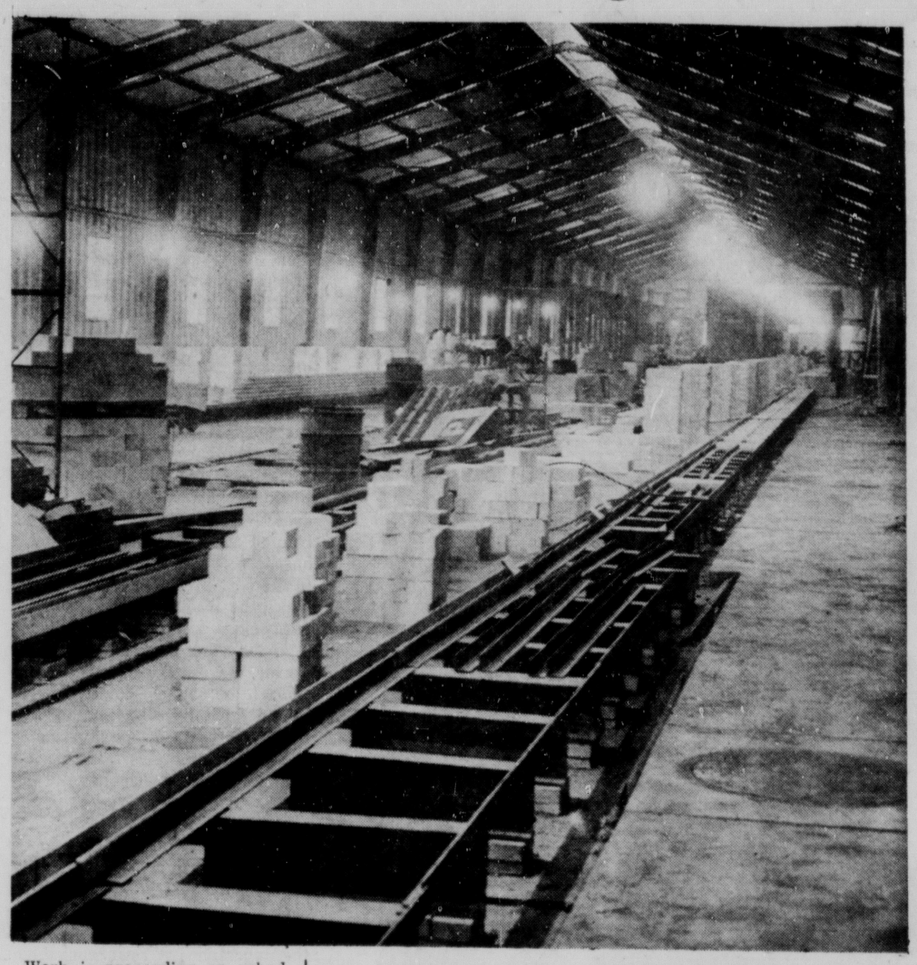
$1½ Million Expansion

Brick Plant Project Progresses



Work is proceeding on schedule for a $1½ million expansion program at the Buckeye Works of the McLain Fire Brick Co., Refractories Division of the H. K. Porter Co. Inc., in Wellsville, and construction of a new clay mine along Route 45.

The mechanized clay mine will represent an investment of $455,000, with the remainder of the sum going into the plant extension.

The expansion project at the Clark Ave. plant started in June. All structural steel buildings have been completed, one of which will house two Swindell-Dressler tunnel kilns, each 480 feet long — over 100 feet longer than the average kiln.

The two kilns, built simultaneously, have been under construction for a month. The raw materials handling system for the Buckeye plant is nearing completion.

The mine on Route 45 a short distance from the city will operate in conjunction with the Buckeye plant. Two tunnel entries, driven in 250 feet, are complete and the concrete linings have been started.

The daily capacity will be between 1,100 and 1,200 tons of clay on a single shift. It will incorporate latest mine and material handling construction. Roof bolts produced by the Connors Steel Division are being used in the construction.

Construction of the new mine will be completed in the spring of 1961, the Porter Co. said. The chief product of the Buckeye plant, one of five in this area, is ladle brick.

to go to the Courthouse, he explained.

If a householder decides his valuation is too high, he can file an appeal with the Board of Revision, which is composed of the president of the county commissioners, the auditor and treasurer.

If he still objects to the valuation, he can file a suit in Common Pleas Court. The final appeal can be made with the Board of Tax Appeals in Columbus.

Any tax increase will come within the 10-mill limitation, the auditor said, explaining millage outside the 10-mill limitation, such as city and school district tax levies and bond issues, will be cut back to produce the same amount of money as the subdivisions receive now.

Reviewing the program, Bell said the reappraisal program was started in July 1959 with the Cleveland firm acting as an advisor and training the field supervisors.

When the field crews began their work, the only information they received was the lot or tract number and the name of the owner. The crews measured the property, drew sketches of the dwellings and checked with property owners on such items as type of flooring, walls, number of rooms and type of heating.

To avoid complaints that homes hadn't been checked, property owners were asked to sign cards to show they had been contacted, Bell said.

In setting the new valuations, the replacement cost is fixed and then an allowance is made for depreciation after which the locality factor is added, Bell explained. Present valuations are based on the 1941 reproduction costs, but 1956 costs are being used in the present reappraisal.

Bell was introduced by Laurin Stacey, program chairman.

Howard E. Tice, president, announced James Horger has been named Lion tamer and David Whealdon director. Horger will succeed John Rippeth, who has been promoted to the home office of the Hoosier Casualty Co. in Indianapolis.

Noise, Smell Of Smoke Cause Firemen's Run

A combination of noise and the smell of smoke sent firemen racing to an apartment building at 503 Mulberry St. early this morning, but an investigation failed to reveal any fire.

Other residents of the building also told firemen of hearing the explosion-type noise but an investigation provided no explanation, firemen said.

Smoke from a nearby chimney apparently accounted for the smell, they added.

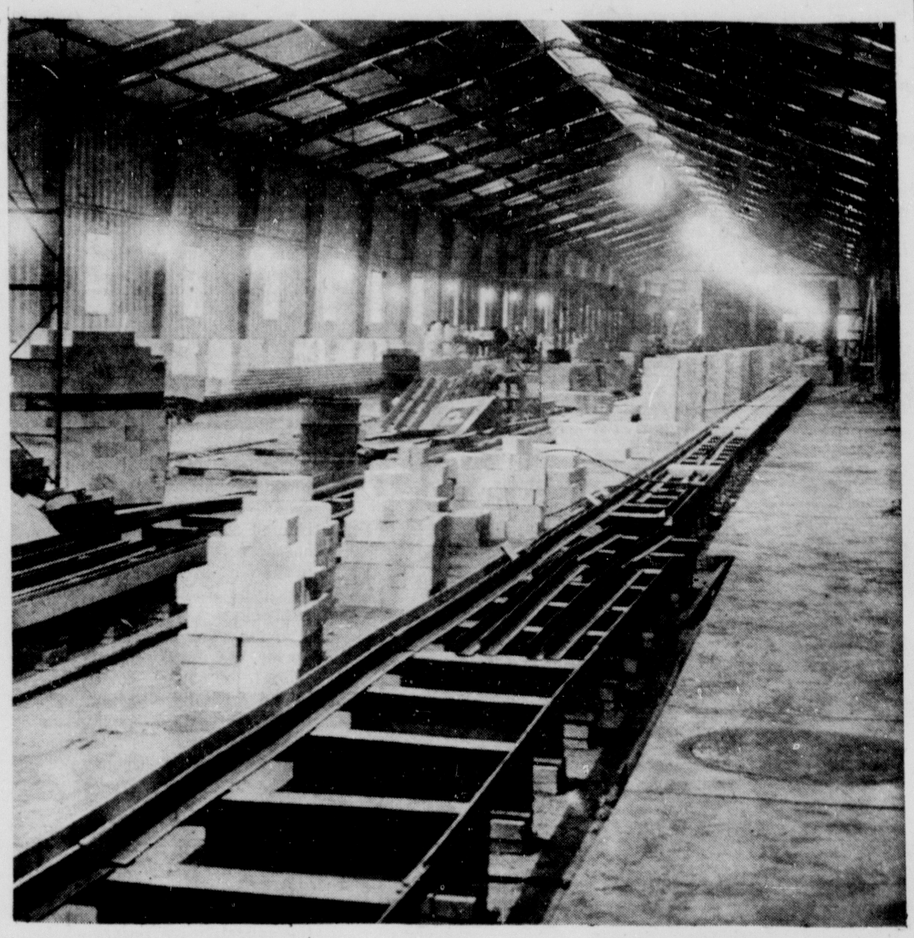
$1½ Million Expansion

Brick Plant Project Progresses



Work is proceeding on schedule for a $1½ million expansion program at the Buckeye Works of the McLain Fire Brick Co., Refractories Division of the H. K. Porter Co. Inc., in Wellsville, and construction of a new clay mine along Route 45.

The mechanized clay mine will represent an investment of $455,000, with the remainder of the sum going into the plant extension.

The expansion project at the Clark Ave. plant started in June. All structural steel buildings have been completed, one of which will house two Swindell-Dressler tunnel kilns, each 480 feet long — over 100 feet longer than the average kiln.

The two kilns, built simultaneously, have been under construction for a month. The raw materials handling system for the Buckeye plant is nearing completion.

The mine on Route 45 a short distance from the city will operate in conjunction with the Buckeye plant. Two tunnel entries, driven in 250 feet, are complete and the concrete linings have been started.

The daily capacity will be between 1,100 and 1,200 tons of clay on a single shift. It will incorporate latest mine and material handling construction. Roof bolts produced by the Connors Steel Division are being used in the construction.

Construction of the new mine will be completed in the spring of 1961, the Porter Co. said. The chief product of the Buckeye plant, one of five in this area, is ladle brick.

The meeting will be held at the home of the Rev. Arthur D. McGaffick of Hookstown R. D. 1, an official of the Free Methodist Churches.

Tax Hike Due On Properties

to go to the Courthouse, he explained.

If a householder decides his valuation is too high, he can file an appeal with the Board of Revision, which is composed of the president of the county commissioners, the auditor and treasurer.

If he still objects to the valuation, he can file a suit in Common Pleas Court. The final appeal can be made with the Board of Tax Appeals in Columbus.

Any tax increase will come within the 10-mill limitation, the auditor said, explaining millage outside the 10-mill limitation, such as city and school district tax levies and bond issues, will be cut back to produce the same amount of money as the subdivisions receive now.

Reviewing the program, Bell said the reappraisal program was started in July 1959 with the Cleveland firm acting as an advisor and training the field supervisors.

When the field crews began their work, the only information they received was the lot or tract number and the name of the owner. The crews measured the property, drew sketches of the dwellings and checked with property owners on such items as type of flooring, walls, number of rooms and type of heating.

To avoid complaints that homes hadn't been checked, property owners were asked to sign cards to show they had been contacted, Bell said.

In setting the new valuations, the replacement cost is fixed and then an allowance is made for depreciation after which the locality factor is added, Bell explained. Present valuations are based on the 1941 reproduction costs, but 1956 costs are being used in the present reappraisal.

Bell was introduced by Laurin Stacey, program chairman.

Howard E. Tice, president, announced James Horger has been named Lion tamer and David Whealdon director. Horger will succeed John Rippeth, who has been promoted to the home office of the Hoosier Casualty Co. in Indianapolis.

The club's annual Christmas party for underprivileged children will be held Friday noon at the hotel when Santa Claus will pay his annual visit. Whealdon is chairman.

Noise, Smell Of Smoke Cause Firemen's Run

A combination of noise and the smell of smoke sent firemen racing to an apartment building at 503 Mulberry St. early this morning, but an investigation failed to reveal any fire.

Mrs. Pearl Clutter telephoned firemen at 1:10 a. m., reporting a loud noise similar to a furnace explosion and the smell of smoke.

Other residents of the building also told firemen of hearing the explosion-type noise but an investigation provided no explanation, firemen said.

Smoke from a nearby chimney apparently accounted for the smell, they added.

Japanese, Russians, Congolese . . .

It can be argued that the Congolese have done nothing so far in their civil disorder that hadn't been done more savagely by Frenchmen, Britons, Americans, Spaniards and Latin Americans long before these unprepared Africans were thrown on their own resources.

But it cannot be argued that this makes the excessive violence and savagery of the Congolese easier to bear for white men who feel responsible for curbing it. And it cannot be argued that there was merit in a political decision that threw these people on their own resources before they had an outside chance to maintain discipline.

WHAT CAN BE ARGUED, instead, is that there is a strong case for isolating unprepared people as long and as thoroughly as possible.

The United States hardly could wait to open up Japan in the middle of the 19th century, at a time when the Japanese were in a state of savagery. A century later, the Japanese are still struggling to adjust themselves to a civilization that was thrust upon them—a civilization they had not earned and did not choose.

After the Russian revolution, the United States and Britain hardly could wait to help Russia's new political masters equip Russia to produce armament long before it had produced a sense of responsibility.

After World War I, the United States was in a frenzied hurry to put the over-militant Germans back on their feet.

There could be such a thing as letting natural evolution run its course before catapulting people into responsibilities they are not ready to bear.

IT WOULD BE unthinkable to force firearms on children, in the hope they might learn to use them responsibly by trial and error.

It is beginning to be unthinkable that the Congolese can accept responsibility in a world that does not condone hostages, torture and violence against women. They, the Japanese, the Germans and the Russians have been grim reminders in our time that not everybody is ready for civilization as soon as button-down shirts become available.

There is nothing to be gained by rushing evolution. It may be a few centuries before the Congolese can be trusted, though the damage has been done now.

Would The Job Find The Man?

In the Symington plan for revisions in national defense, one question goes unanswered.

Sen. Symington and the men who helped prepare the plan could not have been expected to find an answer. Indeed they asked the question only indirectly.

Would the tremendous responsibilities that fall on two men under their plan frighten away all citizens asked to bear them?

Could Americans depend on the adage that big jobs always find men big enough to fill them? As it happens, the adage is disproved as often as it's proved anyway.

THE SYMINGTON PLAN makes a single civilian secretary of defense and a single militarist, who would bear the title "chairman of the joint staff," solely responsible for all the momentous decisions that go with national defense in the nuclear era.

It must be assumed in such a plan that two paragons of poise, wisdom, energy and efficiency could be found to bear this responsibility, which now is scattered more or less equitably among more than a score of officials.

Even more to the point is the assumption that someone could be found who, although a professional militarist himself, could serve as chairman of the joint staff without fanning the smoldering fires of jealousy among the services. Even under the present system that gives all the services representation on the Joint Chiefs of Staff and rotates the chairmanship among the services, there is jealousy.

It is this very fact that has proved comforting at times—the knowledge that the Joint Chiefs of Staff must thresh out competing claims for prestige before one branch of the service can ride roughshed over the other two.

THE SYMINGTON PLAN would put all the eggs in one basket—the chairman. The chairman would work with the civilian secretary. The secretary would be answerable to the chief executive—the commander-in-chief.

The plan has its attractive points. It clearly would speed up the decision-making process in a crisis. But where would the geniuses be found who could think of so much responsibility without shying away from the prospect of bearing it, or buckling under its weight and the accompanying sharp criticism if they tried to bear it.

Once more the attempt to improve government seems to have laid down specifications for supermen instead of mere mortals.

U.N. Requires A 'Tough Guy'

If Adlai E. Stevenson took the post of United States ambassador to the United Nations, his countrymen would be brilliantly represented.

Gov. Stevenson is highly articulate. He is urbane. He is witty. He is a profound patriot. He is a citizen of the world, in the sense that he has traveled widely and knows the people of many countries. He is sensitive to the moods and senstitvities of his own people. He has as large a personal following among Americans as anyone who is not currently holding office. He is at the peak of his personal power, even though his political star is no longer in the ascendancy.

The United Nations would know it had been given the benefit of an individual so highly placed in the councils of his party that he would outrank Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. as Dwight Eisenhower's choice and also James J. Wadsworth, who succeeded Ambassador Lodge.

There would be, in fact, only one thing wrong with Gov. Stevenson as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

He could have to convince millions of his countrymen, including millions of his admirers, that he had not embraced an Eatonese philosophy about being charming to the Russians and thereby eliciting charm in return.

He would have to stay on the defensive with his own countrymen until he had demonstrated a desire to go on the offensive against the Communist bloc inside and outside the United Nations.

He would have to learn to set his jaw and his lips in that tough-guy manner which endeared Ambassador Lodge to Americans and their friends during more than seven years of tough-house debate in the United Nations.

It is by no means certain that Gov. Stevenson couldn't get the hang of it if he tried. The question is whether he'd feel like trying.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Dear Editor: I am a street and department store Santa Claus. Some of my friends tell me there is no Santa. Please, tell me the truth? Kringle, No. 8,601.

Dear Kringle No. 8,601: Your friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism produced by a gander at phony white whiskers and scarecrow red suits slapped onto you and thousands of other impersonators during Yuletide by sloppy costuming departments. Yes, Kringle, there is a Santa Claus but you do him no good. He exists despite make-up and terrible type-casting.

Your friends have observed the skeptical expressions on the faces of children. They have heard the moppets cry, "Aw, Mommer, I don't wanna sit in Boris Karloff's lap."

Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn: Of course, not. But you believe in them because nobody dresses them up in misfit clothing and makes them yell "Ho! Ho!", ring cowbells and look like Skid Row characters.

You can tear apart a baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside but there is a veil covering the unseen world. (Oh, Kringle, if somebody would only make a veil big enough to cover you and most of the street and store Santas!

No real Santa Claus! Thank heaven he lives. A thousand years from now he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood, but you will always make it tough for him.

HERBERT HOOVER was awarded a medal by the Football Foundation and why not? He ran interference for Compassion and Relief in the Wilhelm versus Belgium contest and was concededly All-American up to the time he fumbled in the chicken-in-every-pot play. His toughest football fight was with the Depression Eleven, which showed unprecedented attack and smothered the Hoover "prosperity just around the corner" formation. He put up gallant battle against terrific odds and suffered unnecessary roughness in games with Hyde Park and the New Deal.

The Power Of Faith

by Howard Brodie

As Christmas approached in the Austrian village of Oberndorf in 1818, the church organ broke down. Father Joseph Mohr felt that his flock would be disappointed without the prepared organ music, it is said, and so began to write the words of a new song, Silent Night, Holy Night. It is documented that on Christmas Eve day, he handed his words to the church organist, Franz Gruber "with the request that he write for it a suitable melody arranged for two solo voices, chorus, and a guitar accompaniment. On the very same evening the latter . . . handed to the pastor his simple composition, which was thereupon immediately performed on that holy Night of Christmas Eve . . ." Thus, the seeming obstacle of a broken organ, gave rise, through the talent and spirit of two men, to the inspired Christmas carol.

Some Hard Questions Await Hoffa

By Victor Riesel

When Jimmy Hoffa takes the McClellan committee witness stand on the morning of Dec. 13, to answer questions on gangsters in the teamsters brotherhood, he will have a case to make for himself as a leader who went above and beyond the call of duty. A slight case. He will be able, should He wish, to show that he approved the expenditure of exactly $4,315.98 for the teamsters own anti-racketeering committee in the first six months of this aging year.

Victor Riesel

That's about $31 a day. Enough for pencils and postage and a hurried call or two.

This will undoubtedly fascinate the two sitting senators—John McClellan and Edmund Muskie. But what they really want to know is why the disdainful one authorized ten times that amount for legal fees in the same period.

The teamsters financial records show that $476,092.96 was spent on lawyers and the courts.

EXTENDED over the entire year, at the same rate, the teamsters put out a million dollars in legal fees. Most of these funds went to fight the federal court appointed monitors. Hoffa went into the court of appeals at least 38 times by my actual count.

Sen. McClellan's scalpel sharp probers, chief counsel Jerome Adlerman and special investigator Paul Tierney want to know why the teamsters practically cut a path through the rock between their national headquarters and the nation's second highest court.

What special questions these men will ask, only they and their senatorial colleagues know.

During the three-day hearing by this sub-committee of the Committee on Government Operations, the probers will concentrate on the possible influence of tough New York mobsters.

SOME 20 THUGS have been subpoenaed, as well as Jim Hoffa and Martin O'Donohue, the crusader who as monitor chief stood against the 40-59-man legal battery thrown up by the teamsters.

When the thugs hit the spotlight they'll have to duck some queries as heavily loaded as the stuff they've been accustomed to heaving at passersby on lonely streets.

Adlerman and Tierney have been in to see New York City Police Commissioner Steve Kennedy. His anonymous special rackets bureau is one of the nation's best.

The quest of the inquiry will be Hoffa's reasons for not cooperating with the monitors long after these thugs have been exposed.

That's about all that can be done in three days, although there is much more that piques the committee's well prepared curiosity.

They might, if they had time, ask why some teamsters were so unfriendly to the U.S. postal inspector when the latter looked into some teamsters' activity the better part of this year.

THE PROBERS could point to special federal investigations of the teamsters in Philadelphia, Detroit, Chicago, all over New Jersey and as far west as California.

They could point to teamsters officials indicted on charges of defrauding their locals and for violating the Hobbs anti-terror law. And where was the teamsters own anti-racketeering committee during all this?

The investigators believe they can show that little was done to clean up the moral mess exhumed by the McClellan committee over the years. It will all be done on the eve of the inauguration of the President-elect who made Hoffa a campaign issue.

There is more to this hearing. Sen. McClellan, officially, will be looking into the operation of the Department of Labor Compliance Division set up under the Landrum-Griffin Act. This section has 140 investigators drawn from various other agencies. They work out of 24 area offices from Puerto Rico to Hawaii. This is still a new unit.

The hearing will be a good school for scandal for those seeking the facts of life on this front.

Purely Personal

I have a plan to kill two birds with one stone — celebrate Mother's Day and Christmas together. Then give the old lady a day off, which would take the killing pressure off Christmas. Everybody would be happier.

I'd like to know why the taste of garlic is so enticing when the smell of garlic is so revolting. Except for odoriferous cheeses, I can think of nothing else that tastes good and smells bad.

This is not a happy thought for a newspaperman, but extreme precautions must be taken to guard the Kennedy infant against the unauthorized intrusion of hundreds of press photographers, all hoping for a bonus if they can take the baby's picture. Jungle practice like this once drove the Charles A. Lindberghs to seek refuge in England, when press photographers spurned their request to help them protect their second son after the kidnaping of their first-born.

I have had no luck with bittersweet and holly, two berry-bearing plants that are "sexed"; i.e., it takes a "male" and "female" plant to produce the desired berries. My holly trees are barren of berries. So are my bittersweet vines, although in both cases nurserymen assured me I had a "pair."

I have a zany friend who leaves his Christmas tree up until his neighbors take it down, which he says usually occurs late in February or early in March.

It's odd that people will pay for the privilege of dining in a restaurant that furnishes pleasant music but only rarely will take the trouble to play a recording while dining at home.

If I could have the gratification of one wish, I think it would be to wish for something now as desperately as I used to wish Santa Claus would bring me a steam engine. Just anything . . .

Nothing is uglier than the faces and mannerisms of a certain type of woman conspicuous in the carryings - on in the New Orleans school trouble. It is hard to believe these harpies ever were attractive.

I find one bit of solid comfort in the Christmas procedure of swapping gifts. By judiciously guiding the purchasing power of the few people who give me presents, I obtain everything I'd have to buy for myself — shirts, ties, socks, cuff links, collar pins etc.

An American Travesty

By David Lawrence

Cabinet System Seen In Need Of Revision

The American people are witnessing again a travesty on representative government — the selection of the Cabinet by the President-elect.

David Lawrence

Not one of the men who will wield tremendous power over a huge department of the federal government was elected by the people. Not one of them was proposed for Cabinet membership before the election so that the people could have a chance to voice their approval or disapproval.

The fact that the same thing would be happening if the president - elect today were a Republican or that the identical process has been followed again and again in the past by both parties, doesn't make the whole system any more desirable.

To the other democracies of the world, the American system appears to be unrepresentative — the people have little to say and the vesting of vast powers in one man at the top resembles far more the autocratic than the democratic formula.

IN THE NEWSPAPER reports about prospective members of the Cabinet, the talk is of the political service rendered during the campaign by various personages and the importance of rewarding them. This is a narrow approach. It ignores the greater importance of rewarding the hopes of millions of people who, when they voted for the winning ticket, expected something better than merely political selections.

The New York Times, which editorially supported Sen. Kennedy during the campaign, showed its concern recently as it noted newspaper stories about certain persons being considered for high office because of political service rather than ability.

The Times quoted particularly a campaign speech by Mr. Kennedy in which he said:

"Should I be elected president, it would be my intention to ask the ablest men in the country to make whatever sacrifice is required to bring to the government a ministry of the best available talent . . . for no government is better than the men who compose it — and I want the best . . . All appointments, both high and low, will be made on the basis of ability — without regard to race, creed, national origin, sex, section or occupation."

The Times declared that "the promise could not be clearer, the pledge more solemn" and pointed out that, if this pledge means anything, it "means that political gratitude will be a totally insufficient reason for appointment to major federal office."

This, indeed, is what the country as a whole, irrespective of party, expects of the President-elect.

What other men did before when they won the presidency doesn't justify a breaking of the splendid pledge given by Mr. Kennedy during the last campaign.

THE FACT is, however, that the names of many persons who helped in pre-convention or post-convention efforts to win the electoral votes of key states have been bandied about in the press as likely selections.

Whether these were trial balloons or whether they reflected the ambitions of certain influential persons trying to mould Mr. Kennedy's decisions is unknown to the public.

It seems certain that if, as rumored, the President - elect is seriously considering some of the names being mentioned, he is disregarding some of the principal points in his pledge.

Picking a Cabinet is no easy task but the regrettable custom is to satisfy the political leaders and factions and take a chance on popular indifference or lack of interest.

Theoretically the people have something to say about it, as all appointments to the higher posts have to be confirmed by the U.S. Senate. But the Senate is itself political and it is an unwritten law that, unless an issue involving personal integrity is at stake, the nominations of Cabinet officers, irrespective of party, are promptly confirmed.

Under a parliamentary system — as in Canada — they do it differently. The Cabinet members are themselves veterans of Parliament and are known to the people as the prospective selections long before the election is held.

Policy decisions are those of the entire Cabinet and not just of the prime minister. Thus the Cabinet as a whole is responsible to the people.

SUCH A SYSTEM for this country was forecast in February 1913 by President-elect Woodrow Wilson in a letter to the then house majority leader, which read in part as follows:

"Sooner or later, it would seem, he (the president) must be made answerable to opinion in a somewhat more informal and intimate fashion — answerable, it may be, to the Houses whom he seeks to lead, either personally or through a cabinet, as well as to the people for whom they speak. But that is a matter to be worked out — as it inevitably will be — in some natural American way which we cannot yet even predict."

Maybe the time now has arrived for Congress to give serious consideration to a constitutional amendment which would make the Cabinet responsible to the people through both houses of Congress.

Repealing Moral Law

By Raymond Moley

An indeterminate number of conservative voters denied their support of Nixon because of his reputed closeness to Secretary Flemming of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

This was because of the secretary's indiscriminate employment and support of many individuals in the office of education and the Social Security Administration, with extremely radical and visionary notions about the meaning of welfare and the government's responsibility for obligations hitherto regarded as strictly within the province of the individual and the local community.

Proof of this secretarial naivete has now appeared in a booklet published by the Social Security Administration entitled, "Filial Responsibility in the Modern American Family." It sells for 25 cents and for that small sum children may get the latest fancy reasons why they owe nothing to their parents.

THIS PUBLICATION holds the thesis that 35 states have been wrong in requiring children, able to do so, to contribute to the support of their needy parents.

The ideal of legislation is that it should embody the moral law generally regarded as binding on all civilized individuals. The legislation in those 35 states, it would seem, embodies one of the first principles of human life—the principle that the family is the basic unit in civilization.

The booklet just issued was prepared by one Alvin L. Schorr, a "family life specialist" in the Social Security Administration. His argument, which is buttressed by many of the writings of "dogooders" in the vague fields of sociology, geriatrics, and social welfare, agree in principle with the report of a Senate subcommittee which declared in substance that, because so many parents now live to an advanced age they cannot be expected to remain "a part of their younger relatives' family."

This shocking conclusion, stated plainly, is that the older and more needy a parent, the less his children should regard him or her as a relative.

I have had to read and reread this utter perversion of morality to believe that it was a responsible government which had issued it. And now comes Mr. Schorr, echoing the idea.

IT SHOULD be said that when that Senate subcommittee made its report Senators Dirksen and Goldwater vehemently denounced it.

Sociological bureaucrats such as Schorr point out that it is not always easy to enforce through legislation the filial obligation upon children who refuse to assume it. Therefore, they believe it to be the easiest way to forget all about moral obligations and to tap what they conceive to be the illimitable revenues of the federal government.

In this column I have on more than one occasion made the point that while the direct support of aged and needy parents may be difficult for children, it would be quite possible to provide a tax deduction for those who purchased health insurance for their parents.

This would be one of several steps ignored in both the Kennedy proposals and the bill, now law, which was sponsored by the administration in the last session of Congress.

It would make the burden less for children growing up with families of their own but still remind them of their moral obligation.

Japanese, Russians, Congolese . . .

It can be argued that the Congolese have done nothing so far in their civil disorder that hadn't been done more savagely by Frenchmen, Britons, Americans, Spaniards and Latin Americans long before these unprepared Africans were thrown on their own resources.

But it cannot be argued that this makes the excessive violence and savagery of the Congolese easier to bear for white men who feel responsible for curbing it. And it cannot be argued that there was merit in a political decision that threw these people on their own resources before they had an outside chance to maintain discipline.

WHAT CAN BE ARGUED, instead, is that there is a strong case for isolating unprepared people as long and as thoroughly as possible.

The United States hardly could wait to open up Japan in the middle of the 19th century, at a time when the Japanese were in a state of savagery. A century later, the Japanese are still struggling to adjust themselves to a civilization that was thrust upon them—a civilization they had not earned and did not choose.

After the Russian revolution, the United States and Britain hardly could wait to help Russia's new political masters equip Russia to produce armament long before it had produced a sense of responsibility.

After World War I, the United States was in a frenzied hurry to put the over-militant Germans back on their feet.

There could be such a thing as letting natural evolution run its course before catapulting people into responsibilities they are not ready to bear.

IT WOULD BE unthinkable to force firearms on children, in the hope they might learn to use them responsibly by trial and error.

It is beginning to be unthinkable that the Congolese can accept responsibility in a world that does not condone hostages, torture and violence against women. They, the Japanese, the Germans and the Russians have been grim reminders in our time that not everybody is ready for civilization as soon as button-down shirts become available.

There is nothing to be gained by rushing evolution. It may be a few centuries before the Congolese can be trusted, though the damage has been done now.

Would The Job Find The Man?

In the Symington plan for revisions in national defense, one question goes unanswered.

Sen. Symington and the men who helped prepare the plan could not have been expected to find an answer. Indeed they asked the question only indirectly.

Would the tremendous responsibilities that fall on two men under their plan frighten away all citizens asked to bear them?

Could Americans depend on the adage that big jobs always find men big enough to fill them? As it happens, the adage is disproved as often as it's proved anyway.

THE SYMINGTON PLAN makes a single civilian secretary of defense and a single militarist, who would bear the title "chairman of the joint staff," solely responsible for all the momentous decisions that go with national defense in the nuclear era.

It must be assumed in such a plan that two paragons of poise, wisdom, energy and efficiency could be found to bear this responsbility, which now is scattered more or less equitably among more than a score of officials.

Even more to the point is the assumption that someone could be found who, although a professional militarist himself, could serve as chairman of the joint staff without fanning the smoldering fires of jealousy among the services. Even under the present system that gives all the services representation on the Joint Chiefs of Staff and rotates the chairmanship among the services, there is jealousy.

It is this very fact that has proved comforting at times—the knowledge that the Joint Chiefs of Staff must thresh out competing claims for prestige before one branch of the service can ride roughshed over the other two.

THE SYMINGTON PLAN would put all the eggs in one basket—the chairman. The chairman would work with the civilian secretary. The secretary would be answerable to the chief executive—the commander-in-chief.

The plan has its attractive points. It clearly would speed up the decision-making process in a crisis. But where would the geniuses be found who could think of so much responsibility without shying away from the prospect of bearing it, or buckling under its weight and the accompanying sharp criticism if they tried to bear it.

Once more the attempt to improve government seems to have laid down specifications for supermen instead of mere mortals.

U.N. Requires A 'Tough Guy'

If Adlai E. Stevenson took the post of United States ambassador to the United Nations, his countrymen would be brilliantly represented.

Gov. Stevenson is highly articulate. He is urbane. He is witty. He is a profound patriot. He is a citizen of the world, in the sense that he has traveled widely and knows the people of many countries. He is sensitive to the moods and senstitvities of his own people. He has as large a personal following among Americans as anyone who is not currently holding office. He is at the peak of his personal power, even though his political star is no longer in the ascendancy.

The United Nations would know it had been given the benefit of an individual so highly placed in the councils of his party that he would outrank Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. as Dwight Eisenhower's choice and also James J. Wadsworth, who succeeded Ambassador Lodge.

There would be, in fact, only one thing wrong with Gov. Stevenson as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

He could have to convince millions of his countrymen, including millions of his admirers, that he had not embraced an Eatonese philosophy about being charming to the Russians and thereby eliciting charm in return.

He would have to stay on the defensive with his own countrymen until he had demonstrated a desire to go on the offensive against the Communist bloc inside and outside the United Nations.

He would have to learn to set his jaw and his lips in that tough-guy manner which endeared Ambassador Lodge to Americans and their friends during more than seven years of tough-house debate in the United Nations.

It is by no means certain that Gov. Stevenson couldn't get the hang of it if he tried. The question is whether he'd feel like trying.

Dear Kringle No. 8,601: Your friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism produced by a gander at phony white whiskers and scarecrow red suits slapped onto you and thousands of other impersonators during Yuletide by sloppy costuming departments. Yes, Kringle, there is a Santa Claus but you do him no good. He exists despite make-up and terrible type-casting.

The Power Of Faith

by Howard Brodie

As Christmas approached in the Austrian village of Oberndorf in 1818, the church organ broke down. Father Joseph Mohr felt that his flock would be disappointed without the prepared organ music, it is said, and so began to write the words of a new song, Silent Night, Holy Night. It is documented that on Christmas Eve day, he handed his words to the church organist, Franz Gruber "with the request that he write for it a suitable melody arranged for two solo voices, chorus, and a guitar accompaniment. On the very same evening the latter . . . handed to the pastor his simple composition, which was thereupon immediately performed on that holy Night of Christmas Eve . . ." Thus, the seeming obstacle of a broken organ, gave rise, through the talent and spirit of two men, to the inspired Christmas carol.

Some Hard Questions Await Hoffa

By Victor Riesel

When Jimmy Hoffa takes the McClellan committee witness stand on the morning of Dec. 13, to answer questions on gangsters in the teamsters brotherhood, he will have a case to make for himself as a leader who went above and beyond the call of duty. A slight case. He will be able, should He wish, to show that he approved the expenditure of exactly $4,315.98 for the teamsters own anti-racketeering committee in the first six months of this aging year.

But the Senate is itself political and it is an unwritten law that, unless an issue involving personal integrity is at stake, the nominations of Cabinet officers, irrespective of party, are promptly confirmed.

Under a parliamentary system — as in Canada — they do it differently. The Cabinet members are themselves veterans of Parliament and are known to the people as the prospective selections long before the election is held.

Policy decisions are those of the entire Cabinet and not just of the prime minister. Thus the Cabinet as a whole is responsible to the people.

SUCH A SYSTEM for this country was forecast in February 1913 by President-elect Woodrow Wilson in a letter to the then house majority leader, which read in part as follows:

"Sooner or later, it would seem, he (the president) must be made answerable to opinion in a somewhat more informal and intimate fashion — answerable, it may be, to the Houses whom he seeks to lead, either personally or through a cabinet, as well as to the people for whom they speak. But that is a matter to be worked out — as it inevitably will be — in some natural American way which we cannot yet even predict."

Maybe the time now has arrived for Congress to give serious consideration to a constitutional amendment which would make the Cabinet responsible to the people through both houses of Congress.

Repealing Moral Law

By Raymond Moley

An indeterminate number of conservative voters denied their support of Nixon because of his reputed closeness to Secretary Flemming of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

This was because of the secretary's indiscriminate employment and support of many individuals in the office of education and the Social Security Administration, with extremely radical and visionary notions about the meaning of welfare and the government's responsibility for obligations hitherto regarded as strictly within the province of the individual and the local community.

Proof of this secretarial naivete has now appeared in a booklet published by the Social Security Administration entitled, "Filial Responsibility in the Modern American Family." It sells for 25 cents and for that small sum children may get the latest fancy reasons why they owe nothing to their parents.

THIS PUBLICATION holds the thesis that 35 states have been wrong in requiring children, able to do so, to contribute to the support of their needy parents.

The ideal of legislation is that it should embody the moral law generally regarded as binding on all civilized individuals. The legislation in those 35 states, it would seem, embodies one of the first principles of human life—the principle that the family is the basic unit in civilization.

The booklet just issued was prepared by one Alvin L. Schorr, a "family life specialist" in the Social Security Administration. His argument, which is buttressed by many of the writings of "dogooders" in the vague fields of sociology, geriatrics, and social welfare, agree in principle with the report of a Senate subcommittee which declared in substance that, because so many parents now live to an advanced age they cannot be expected to remain "a part of their younger relatives' family."

This shocking conclusion, stated plainly, is that the older and more needy a parent, the less his children should regard him or her as a relative.

I have had to read and reread this utter perversion of morality to believe that it was a responsible government which had issued it. And now comes Mr. Schorr, echoing the idea.

IT SHOULD be said that when that Senate subcommittee made its report Senators Dirksen and Goldwater vehemently denounced it.

Sociological bureaucrats such as Schorr point out that it is not always easy to enforce through legislation the filial obligation upon children who refuse to assume it. Therefore, they believe it to be the easiest way to forget all about moral obligations and to tap what they conceive to be the illimitable revenues of the federal government.

In this column I have on more than one occasion made the point that while the direct support of aged and needy parents may be difficult for children, it would be quite possible to provide a tax deduction for those who purchased health insurance for their parents.

This would be one of several steps ignored in both the Kennedy proposals and the bill, now law, which was sponsored by the administration in the last session of Congress.

It would make the burden less for children growing up with families of their own but still remind them of their moral obligation.

Franz Schubert, the immortal Austrian composer who died in 1828 when only 31 years old, wrote more than 60 songs, 20 piano pieces, six masses and other compositions. Almost a pauper during his lifetime, at death his estate was appraised at only about $10.

Berlin's Charlottenburg Castle, extensively damaged during World War II, soon will be completely reopened to the public.

Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was held in place by a crown of pearls and iridescent sequins. She wore pearl earrings, the gift of the bridegroom, and elbow-length lace mitts. Observing the traditions, she carried a lace handkerchief that her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Nettie Thompson Chambers, had at her wedding in 1893, and a sixpence in her shoe, a gift of Miss Sarah Thomas of Chester.

Her white Bible was topped with an arrangement of white orchids and stephanotis with lovers' knots tied in the streamers.

Miss Marcia Keller of Campbellford, Ont., Canada, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of orchid nylon over taffeta with a matching flower headband. Her pearl earrings was a gift of the bride. She carried a basket of yellow and orchid mums tied with orchid streamers.

W. Lorman Meredith was his brother's best man. Ushers were John P. Boch, cousin of the bride, and Donald Emanuel, son of the minister.

The mother of the bride chose a dress of pink lace over taffeta with matching feather hat and a white orchid corsage.

Miss Alma Jane Chambers And William Meredith Wed

MRS. W. E. MEREDITH
Her Nuptials Held On Nov. 26.

Miss Alma Jane Chambers, daughter of Mrs. Grayce O. Chambers of St. George St., and the late Robert E. Chambers, was united in marriage to Harland A. Meredith, son of William M. Meredith of Middlebourne, W. Va., on Nov. 26 at 7 o'clock in the Second United Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Emanuel Emanuel, pastor, officiated for the single-ring ceremony before an altar banked with palms, ferns, white mums and seven-branch candelabra.

Mrs. Jean Russell, church organist, gave a half-hour of wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her cousin, Donald Chambers, and wore a waltz-length gown of Chantilly lace. The Basque bodice was fashioned with brief sleeves and a scalloped, circlet neckline, trimmed with pearl embroidery. The bouffant skirt also was edged in scallops.

Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was held in place by a crown of pearls and iridescent sequins. She wore pearl earrings, the gift of the bridegroom, and elbow-length lace mitts. Observing the traditions, she carried a lace handkerchief that her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Nettie Thompson Chambers, had at her wedding in 1893, and a sixpence in her shoe, a gift of Miss Sarah Thomas of Chester.

Her white Bible was topped with an arrangement of white orchids and stephanotis with lovers' knots tied in the streamers.

Miss Marcia Keller of Campbellford, Ont., Canada, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of orchid nylon over taffeta with a matching flower headband. Her pearl earrings was a gift of the bride. She carried a basket of yellow and orchid mums tied with orchid streamers.

W. Lorman Meredith was his brother's best man. Ushers were John P. Boch, cousin of the bride, and Donald Emanuel, son of the minister.

The mother of the bride chose a dress of pink lace over taffeta with matching feather hat and a white orchid corsage.

A reception for 150 was held in the social rooms. A four-tier cake, topped with a miniature bridal couple and encircled with white and pink mums and fernery, centered the buffet table. Cherub vases of white mums flanked by lighted tapers completed the setting.

Aides were Mrs. Jane McDaniels, Mrs. Hattie Powell, Mrs. James Walker, Miss Nancy Walker, Mrs. Donald Chambers, Miss Suzanne Chambers and Mrs. Geneva Meredith.

For her honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, the bride wore an orchid suit with matching hat and her bridal orchids.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Sanford Keller and daughter, Miss Marcia Keller, of Campbellford, and others from Canton, Akron, Middlebourne and Beaver.

The bridegroom is employed at the Mackintosh-Hemphill Division of the E. W. Bliss Co. at Midland. The newlyweds are residing in a new home on Boring Ln.

The rehearsal party was given by the bride's mother.

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

Importance Of Your Mental Tone

I hope you are in the best of health and physically in fine shape. If not, you might do well to take an inquiring look at your emotional condition and at what goes on in your mind. For you see, your health can be affected mightily by your feelings and thoughts. A New Jersey neurologist told me about a young woman who came to him complaining of not feeling well. Physical examination disclosed no specific disorder except that this young woman was running a temperature of around 100 or 101 degrees day after day. The doctor could find no organic condition to account for this slight though persistent fever. He decided to send the girl to a sanitarium for six weeks of rest and observation.

NO SOONER had she departed for the sanitarium than her temperature went down to normal. It remained normal the whole time she was at the sanitarium. But as soon as she returned home, the fever returned.

The doctor was puzzled by this. Finally he found out that the patient's father, a dominating and demanding parent, had been insisting that she marry a certain man to whom she was not attracted.

It was the father's judgment that this young man, being of a socially prominent family and having fine prospects in business, would be an excellent match for his daughter. To her objection that she didn't love the man, he responded unreasonably by trying to persuade her that — she could "learn to love him."

As was only natural, the girl reacted to her father's attitude with deep resentment. But because she was also very fond of her father, she felt guilty about hating him. Result: extreme inner tension.

Her physical organism then accommodated her mind's desire to escape by running a fever. The purpose, or value, of the fever was that as long as she was not in good health she could not be expected to enter into this obnoxious marriage. It was the body's way of cooperating in the deep desires of the personality.

THE NEUROLOGIST explained to the father that if he persisted in his efforts to force his daughter into the marriage of his choice, he would seriously harm her both mentally and physically. Reason finally prevailed. The father told the girl he was agreeable to her marrying whomever she wished. She has had no fever since.

One time a married couple came to me for counseling about their 8-year-old son who had suddenly developed a bad stutter. There was nothing structurally wrong with the boy's tongue or mouth. His medical history was normal enough. The stuttering had started quite suddenly.

Here, too, the trouble was the behavior of the parents. They were nervous people constantly arguing and battling with each other. They did love each other, but they went about it, you might say, in a hostile kind of way. And sometimes this hostility would erupt into violet squabbles.

One morning at breakfast these two good people had a terrible row. The boy, sitting at the table with them, was caught in the crossfire, so to speak. Twenty - four hours after this experience he suddenly became incapable of talking without stuttering.

His affliction was diagnosed as resulting from extreme emotional tension; from fear of another such outburst between his parents. It required months to cure him. The youngster gradually lost the stutter as the relationship between his mother and father improved with the help of counseling, and as he became assured subconsciously that the undercurrent of petulant animosity was gone.

WITH THE rapid progress of medical science in our lifetime, the word psychosomatic has come into common use. Psychosomatic ailments are physical disorders caused by disturbances in the feelings or mind. Our physical tone, as doctors sometimes call it, can be largely determined by mental tone.

By practicing mental and spiritual hygiene you can protect yourself from psychosomatic illonce turning to quiet prayer when something has troubled you in mind. Meditate quietly on some great religious text, as, for example, the powerful therapetuic words of the 23rd Psalm: "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. . ." Hear, deep within you, the healing admonition, "Be still, and know that I am God."

When you are calm at the center, you will be able to see your trouble in a different light. If you have brought it on yourself by some wrong attitude — hate, bitterness, impatience, greed — you will recognize the fact and correct your attitude.

If there are outside pressures, as in the case of the young girl with the dominating father, you will see more clearly where to be conciliatory and where to stand you ground, how to handle the situation positively and without ill will.

Mental and spiritual hygiene takes time, effort, self-control. But it can make you less susceptible to fatigue, ulcers, nervous tics, high blood pressure and any number of other ills. It can pay big dividends in better health.

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

Importance Of Your Mental Tone

I hope you are in the best of health and physically in fine shape. If not, you might do well to take an inquiring look at your emotional condition and at what goes on in your mind. For you see, your health can be affected mightily by your feelings and thoughts. A New Jersey neurologist told me about a young woman who came to him complaining of not feeling well. Physical examination disclosed no specific disorder except that this young woman was running a temperature of around 100 or 101 degrees day after day. The doctor could find no organic condition to account for this slight though persistent fever. He decided to send the girl to a sanitarium for six weeks of rest and observation.

NO SOONER had she departed for the sanitarium than her temperature went down to normal. It remained normal the whole time she was at the sanitarium. But as soon as she returned home, the fever returned.

The doctor was puzzled by this. Finally he found out that the patient's father, a dominating and demanding parent, had been insisting that she marry a certain man to whom she was not attracted.

It was the father's judgment that this young man, being of a socially prominent family and haying fine prospects in business, would be an excellent match for his daughter. To her objection that she didn't love the man, he responded unreasonably by trying to persuade her that — she could "learn to love him."

As was only natural, the girl reacted to her father's attitude with deep resentment. But because she was also very fond of her father, she felt guilty about hating him. Result: extreme inner tension.

Her physical organism then accommodated her mind's desire to escape by running a fever. The purpose, or value, of the fever was that as long as she was not in good health she could not be expected to enter into this obnoxious marriage. It was the body's way of cooperating in the deep desires of the personality.

THE NEUROLOGIST explained to the father that if he persisted in his efforts to force his daughter into the marriage of his choice, he would seriously harm her both mentally and physically. Reason finally prevailed. The father told the girl he was agreeable to her marrying whomever she wished. She has had no fever since.

One time a married couple came to me for counseling about their 8-year-old son who had suddenly developed a bad stutter. There was nothing structurally wrong with the boy's tongue or mouth. His medical history was normal enough. The stuttering had started quite suddenly.

Here, too, the trouble was the behavior of the parents. They were nervous people constantly arguing and battling with each other. They did love each other, but they went about it, you might say, in a hostile kind of way. And sometimes this hostility would erupt into violet squabbles.

One morning at breakfast these two good people had a terrible row. The boy, sitting at the table with them, was caught in the crossfire, so to speak. Twenty - four hours after this experience he suddenly became incapable of talking without stuttering.

His affliction was diagnosed as resulting from extreme emotional tension; from fear of another such outburst between his parents. It required months to cure him. The youngster gradually lost the stutter as the relationship between his mother and father improved with the help of counseling, and as he became assured subconsciously that the undercurrent of petulant animosity was gone.

WITH THE rapid progress of medical science in our lifetime, the word psychosomatic has come into common use. Psychosomatic ailments are physical disorders caused by disturbances in the feelings or mind. Our physical tone, as doctors sometimes call it, can be largely determined by mental tone.

By practicing mental and spiritual hygiene you can protect yourself from psychosomatic illonce turning to quiet prayer when something has troubled you in mind. Meditate quietly on some great religious text, as, for example, the powerful therapetuic words of the 23rd Psalm: "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. . ." Hear, deep within you, the healing admonition, "Be still, and know that I am God."

When you are calm at the center, you will be able to see your trouble in a different light. If you have brought it on yourself by some wrong attitude — hate, bitterness, impatience, greed — you will recognize the fact and correct your attitude.

If there are outside pressures, as in the case of the young girl with the dominating father, you will see more clearly where to be conciliatory and where to stand you ground, how to handle the situation positively and without ill will.

Mental and spiritual hygiene takes time, effort, self-control. But it can make you less susceptible to fatigue, ulcers, nervous tics, high blood pressure and any number of other ills. It can pay big dividends in better health.

Foul Line Helps Wellsville To 67-37 Win Over Lisbon

New Cumberland Keeps Rolling By Nipping Newell, 54-46

Convert 33 Of 47 In Second Victory

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Their edge in total field goals was only a pair, but Wellsville High's Tigers made hay at the foul line to breeze to a 67-37 triumph over Lisbon Friday night.

Defensive play was appaling as the over-anxious losers help beat themselves in a game slowed by fouls, poor shooting and very little finess by either team.

Jack McDevitt's Tigers used their superior height and scoring power to roar to a 20-6 first quarter lead, then got in a little practice at the charity line to pile up more points.

It was a ragged debut of Coach Gary Pike's short Lisbon squad that flashed almost a zero in field goal accuracy.

"We could maybe have beaten a smaller team, but we don't play any this year" was the comment of Coach Pike following the rout before 764 paid fans at Beacom Memorial gym.

Wellsville, off to a flying start earlier this week against Youngstown Woodrow Wilson, chalked up its second victory. The Tigers had an edge of two in field goals — 17 to 15 — but made 33 of 47 fouls to win easily.

At one stretch in the second quarter, the Tigers made a dozen in a row. The fans groaned as both teams missed plenty of field goal attempts.

Lisbon was the worst offender in missing shots. The Blue Devils sank 15 of 65. Wellsville connected on 17 of 47.

The Tigers got practically no chance to work any offensive maneuvers because of the consistent fouling. Lisbon shot mostly from long range.

Big Bob Kiggans, Wellsville's elongated pivot whiz, was the game's highest score with 16 points but the total included only three field goals. The rest came at the foul line where he netted 10 of 12. Rod Ferguson hit six for six.

Phil Baldwin worked around Lisbon's man-to-man to hit for four goals and seven of 10 fouls for 15 points. Junior Ben Cannadate got off to a fast start by hitting three quick goals in the first quarter and finished with 10 points.

Everyone on the Wellsville bench saw action and even the substitutes got a chance to try their ability at making fouls. Pike also substituted freely, but couldn't find a shooter hot enough to make much difference.

Paul Fry led Lisbon with two goals and four fouls for eight points. Most everyone scored on the Lisbon squad as substitutes raced around the court in the second half.

McDevitt's Tigers, yet to be seriously challenged with two games under their belts, now have a long layoff until their next test against Freedom Dec. 20.

The Tiger mentor indicated he wasn't pleased with his starting quint's performance, particularly in the defensive man-to-man work of his guards.

James (Jazzo) Migliore and Delmo Trombetta, the varsity officials, called a fine game even though the statistics indicate otherwise. Four Lisbon players fouled out in the rough encounter.

Preliminary action found Wellsville's reserves also chalking up an easy victory, 48-23, over Lisbon's reserves. The victory was the second in a row for Coach Carl Firm's squad.

Andy Dash continued to lead the young Tigers with 14 points. Frank Luckino netted 10 and sophomore Steve Baldwin got nine. McPherson was high for Lisbon with seven.

Chester Tops Bethany In Opener By 36-23

Chester's young Panthers survived their first test of the 1960-61 campaign by handing Bethany a 36-23 setback Friday night at Chester.

Coach Max Tuttle, playing three sophomores in the starting five, watched his team break on top 12-2 at the end of the first quarter then maintain the upper hand the rest of the way.

Poor shooting marked the contest on both sides but defense finally paid off for the Panthers. A good back line of Blaine Pinney, Bill Mackall and Jim Conkle turned in key defensive performances.

Pinney, the junior pivot star and one of two lettermen for the Panthers, played with a heavily taped ankle after being injured Wednesday. He was the game's top rebounder.

It was sophomore Jim Tridico who topped the Panthers in the scoring department with 14 points. Pinney and sophomore Chuck Mullen each chipped in with eight points each.

Not one of the Bethany starters gained the double figures as Frank Brown was high with 6 markers.

Chester will entertain New Cumberland Tuesday night.

In the preliminary contest, Chester's reserves picked up a 48-22 win with "Hot Rod" Coen netting 16 markers.

Hartshorn Ties Record At Palestine

Jim Hartshorn, a jump shot specialist, tied the East Palestine High's individual scoring record with a 35-point performance in the Bulldogs' 78-56 victory at Boardman Friday night.

The contest marked the first victory for Coach Chick McBride's squad which dropped its first two starts.

The 6-foot-1 Hartshorn, who scored 33 points against Wampum last week, tied the mark set by Jim Knight in 1958.

A field goal, his only one of the fourth quarter, tied the mark. He dropped in 17 fielders and one foul.

His scoring showed 17 in the first half and 16 in the third period and the lone two points coming during the fourth quarter.

After a 20-13 edge at the first period, East Palestine raced to a 43-26 lead at halftime.

Jim McCloskey finished behind Hartshorn in the scoring with 18. Tom Kiewitt was Boardman's big gun with 13.

It was a twin-killing for the Bulldogs when the Jayvees gained a 52-41 win in the preliminary.

Chargers Shoot For AFL's West Division Crown

By The Associated Press

Los Angeles shot for the Western Division title and Paul Lowe for the American Football League's ground-gaining crown today when the Chargers met the visiting Denver Broncos.

With a 8-4 record and only two games to play, the Chargers needed only a victory or a tie over the Broncos (4-7-1) to gain the first berth in the initial AFL title game Jan. 1.

But Lowe's task was a little tougher. Starting late, the Charger back has passed Houston's Dave Smith, the early season leader, but still must catch Abner Haynes of Dallas.

Through 12 games, Haynes had 780 yards, Lowe 686 and Smith 583.

Smith leads Houston (8-4 against Buffalo (5-6-1) Sunday when the Oilers are expected to clinch the Eastern title before home fans.

The Oilers need only a victory or a tie—and not even that if the New York Titans (6-6) fail to defeat the Oakland Raiders (5-7) at San Francisco Sunday.

If Los Angeles misses today, it can back in via a tie or loss by the Dallas Texans (6-6). Dallas is home to the Boston Patriots (5-7).

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—An American group touring Central America expressed satisfaction with the progress of construction being done on the Pan-American Highway with U.S. aid. The group, including Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, left Friday for Panama.

Raiders Gain 3rd In Tight Contest

The important contest in Hancock County Friday night went to New Cumberland which decisioned rival Newell, 54-46, before a packed house at the New Cumberland gym.

It was only the first round, however, since the teams meet again at Newell Jan. 24, then in all probability clash in tournament play about February.

The game proved tight all the way with a series of ties developing, especially in the first half.

New Cumberland, coming with one of its finest clubs in almost a decade, led at each quarter and finally pulled away in the last eight minutes.

Coach John Kuzio's club was on top, 17-14, at the end of the first period and showed the same margin at halftime, 29-26.

Moving at a brisk pace in the third period, the quarter ended with New Cumberland still on top, 44-40. Newell was outscored 10-6 in the final period.

The victory sent the Raiders win streak to three straight while Newell dropped its first in two starts.

For the third game in a row, Charlie Miller led his team in the scoring department. He goaled 16 points with 14 coming in the first half.

In the second half, he kept an eye on Newell's high-scoring Mick Staley and did a good job of defense as he limited Staley to eight points for the game.

Jim Kiger chipped in with 12 points to aid the winners, and along with Gary Nardo who ended with eight markers, was responsible for maintaining the margin in the second half.

Tom Bell and Ron Noland again paced the Newell attack with 12 and 11 points, respectively.

New Cumberland returns to action Tuesday at Chester while Newell marks time until next Friday when the Vikings travel to Cameron.

Newell copped the reserve tilt, 49-24.

NEW WATERFORD — Fairfield-Waterford stayed one jump ahead of Western Reserve and ended that way in a 57-49 victory, the second for the Rebels, here Friday night.

Coach Bing Newton's cagers with two straight under their belts held quarter leads of 12-9, 28-20 and 42-36.

A 6-foot-7 sophomore who didn't start but broke into the lineup later sparked the Rebels in scoring with 12 points as Jim Kress stamped himself as a star for the future. Ray Brown added 10 points.

Jim Sahli, converting 13 out of 15 free throws, wound up with 19 markers for the Western Reserve five.

Auerback's Fiery Oration Pays Off As Celtics Win

BOSTON (AP) — Coach Red Auerbach's fiery oration on "complacency at home" has taken effect on the Boston Celtics.

The defending champions of the National Basketball Association broke a two-game losing streak, beating Cincinnati 146-123 Friday night, and set up an Eastern Division showdown with Philadelphia tonight.

The triumph in the second game of a doubleheader pulled the Celts back into a tie with the Warriors for the division lead. They play in Philadelphia tonight while Los Angeles is at St. Louis and Syracuse is at Detroit in a televised afternoon match.

Cincinnati played without Rookie flash Oscar Robertson who suffered a sprained ankle Thursday night against the Celtics.

Auerbach had erupted in anger when the Celtics lost to Syracuse here Wednesday. He told his players "You let Syracuse outscore you, out-rebound you, outhustle you."

In the other half of Friday night's doubleheader, St. Louis ran away from Syracuse 131-118.

Gil McDougald Quits Baseball

NEW YORK (AP) — Gil McDougald, once called by Casey Stengel "the best second baseman, the best third baseman and the best shortstop in the American League," is through with baseball after 10 years with the New York Yankees.

The 33-year-old infielder, one of the most versatile players in baseball history, said Friday he is retiring to devote more time to his private business — building maintenance — and his family, which consists of his wife and four children ranging in age from 8 to 12.

The California native steps out with a lifetime batting average of .279. Last season, used chiefly as a utility infielder, McDougald hit .259 in 119 games.

McDougald emphasized that being included on the New York list of 15 players made available to the two new American League clubs had nothing to do with his decision. He said he made up his mind during the World Series.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Lenoir Rhyne and Humboldt State College square off tonight in a Holiday Bowl football game.

Humboldt, slightly favored, has run up a string of 20 consecutive victories. The Californians would become the 1960 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics champion by winning this one.

Lenoir Rhyne of Hickory, N.C., goes into the title game with 10 victories and one tie for the season.

Packers 3-Point Choice To Defeat 49ers Today

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Green Bay Packers were three-point favorites today to defeat the San Francisco 49ers, take at least a temporary lead in the Western Conference and remain in the running for a crack at their first National Football League title since 1944.

The 49ers had the home field advantage. They had a three-game winning streak, and a sizzling spread offense successful in their last two games.

But the Packers had a handsome halfback named Paul Hornung who has scored more points than anyone in NFL history.

When the Packers beat the 49ers 41-14 in October at Milwaukee, Hornung scored 23 points. He has 152 through 10 games, only 22 less than the entire 49er team.

The Packers, 49ers and Baltimore Colts started the weekend tied for the Western lead, each with 6-4.

The Colts are at Los Angeles Sunday and are 7-point favorites to make up the half-game edge slated for the winner of today's nationally televised Packers-49ers showdown—CBS, 4:30 p.m. EST.

In the event of a Green Bay-San Francisco tie, the Colts will have a chance to move a half-game in front by beating the Rams, then clinch their third straight Western title by whipping the 49ers next weekend. The Packers play at Los Angeles next week.

If the Packers, 49ers and Colts all go 1-1 for the two remaining games, the Chicago Bears (5-4-1) could take it all by beating the Browns at Cleveland Sunday and the Lions at Detroit next week.

The Lions (5-5), by defeating the Dallas Cowboys (0-10-1) at home, then the Bears, could force a four-way tie with the current leaders in the event of that three-way 1-1 split and a Bear falldown. The Lions are 13-point favorites, the Bears 7-point underdogs.

A four-way Western tie would push the title game—now set for Philadelphia on Dec. 26—back to Jan. 8. The first alternate date is Jan. 1.

With the Philadelphia Eagles (9-1) already assured of the Eastern crown, the question is who will finish second, the New York Giants (5-3-2) or the Browns (6-3-1)?

Foul Line Helps Wellsville To 67-37 Win Over Lisbon

New Cumberland Keeps Rolling By Nipping Newell, 54-46

Convert 33 Of 47 In Second Victory

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Their edge in total field goals was only a pair, but Wellsville High's Tigers made hay at the foul line to breeze to a 67-37 triumph over Lisbon Friday night.

Defensive play was appaling as the over-anxious losers help beat themselves in a game slowed by fouls, poor shooting and very little finess by either team.

Jack McDevitt's Tigers used their superior height and scoring power to roar to a 20-6 first quarter lead, then got in a little practice at the charity line to pile up more points.

It was a ragged debut of Coach Gary Pike's short Lisbon squad that flashed almost a zero in field goal accuracy.

"We could maybe have beaten a smaller team, but we don't play any this year" was the comment of Coach Pike following the rout before 764 paid fans at Beacom Memorial gym.

Wellsville, off to a flying start earlier this week against Youngstown Woodrow Wilson, chalked up its second victory. The Tigers had an edge of two in field goals — 17 to 15 — but made 33 of 47 fouls to win easily.

At one stretch in the second quarter, the Tigers made a dozen in a row. The fans groaned as both teams missed plenty of field goal attempts.

Lisbon was the worst offender in missing shots. The Blue Devils sank 15 of 65. Wellsville connected on 17 of 47.

The Tigers got practically no chance to work any offensive maneuvers because of the consistent fouling. Lisbon shot mostly from long range.

Big Bob Kiggans, Wellsville's elongated pivot whiz, was the game's highest score with 16 points but the total included only three field goals. The rest came at the foul line where he netted 10 of 12. Rod Ferguson hit six for six.

Phil Baldwin worked around Lisbon's man-to-man to hit for four goals and seven of 10 fouls for 15 points. Junior Ben Cannadate got off to a fast start by hitting three quick goals in the first quarter and finished with 10 points.

Everyone on the Wellsville bench saw action and even the substitutes got a chance to try their ability at making fouls. Pike also substituted freely, but couldn't find a shooter hot enough to make much difference.

Paul Fry led Lisbon with two goals and four fouls for eight points. Most everyone scored on the Lisbon squad as substitutes raced around the court in the second half.

McDevitt's Tigers, yet to be seriously challenged with two games under their belts, now have a long layoff until their next test against Freedom Dec. 20.

The Tiger mentor indicated he wasn't pleased with his starting quint's performance, particularly in the defensive man-to-man work of his guards.

James (Jazzo) Migliore and Delmo Trombetta, the varsity officials, called a fine game even though the statistics indicate otherwise. Four Lisbon players fouled out in the rough encounter.

Preliminary action found Wellsville's reserves also chalking up an easy victory, 48-23, over Lisbon's reserves. The victory was the second in a row for Coach Carl Firm's squad.

Andy Dash continued to lead the young Tigers with 14 points. Frank Luckino netted 10 and sophomore Steve Baldwin got nine. McPherson was high for Lisbon with seven.

Chester Tops Bethany In Opener By 36-23

Chester's young Panthers survived their first test of the 1960-61 campaign by handing Bethany a 36-23 setback Friday night at Chester.

Coach Max Tuttle, playing three sophomores in the starting five, watched his team break on top 12-2 at the end of the first quarter then maintain the upper hand the rest of the way.

Poor shooting marked the contest on both sides but defense finally paid off for the Panthers. A good back line of Blaine Pinney, Bill Mackall and Jim Conkle turned in key defensive performances.

Pinney, the junior pivot star and one of two lettermen for the Panthers, played with a heavily taped ankle after being injured Wednesday. He was the game's top rebounder.

It was sophomore Jim Tridico who topped the Panthers in the scoring department with 14 points. Pinney and sophomore Chuck Mullen each chipped in with eight points each.

Not one of the Bethany starters gained the double figures as Frank Brown was high with 6 markers.

Chester will entertain New Cumberland Tuesday night.

In the preliminary contest, Chester's reserves picked up a 48-22 win with "Hot Rod" Coen netting 16 markers.

Hartshorn Ties Record At Palestine

Jim Hartshorn, a jump shot specialist, tied the East Palestine High's individual scoring record with a 35-point performance in the Bulldogs' 78-56 victory at Boardman Friday night.

The contest marked the first victory for Coach Chick McBride's squad which dropped its first two starts.

The 6-foot-1 Hartshorn, who scored 33 points against Wampum last week, tied the mark set by Jim Knight in 1958.

A field goal, his only one of the fourth quarter, tied the mark. He dropped in 17 fielders and one foul.

His scoring showed 17 in the first half and 16 in the third period and the lone two points coming during the fourth quarter.

After a 20-13 edge at the first period, East Palestine raced to a 43-26 lead at halftime.

Jim McCloskey finished behind Hartshorn in the scoring with 18. Tom Kiewitt was Boardman's big gun with 13.

It was a twin-killing for the Bulldogs when the Jayvees gained a 52-41 win in the preliminary.

Chargers Shoot For AFL's West Division Crown

By The Associated Press

Los Angeles shot for the Western Division title and Paul Lowe for the American Football League's ground-gaining crown today when the Chargers met the visiting Denver Broncos.

With a 8-4 record and only two games to play, the Chargers needed only a victory or a tie over the Broncos (4-7-1) to gain the first berth in the initial AFL title game Jan. 1.

But Lowe's task was a little tougher. Starting late, the Charger back has passed Houston's Dave Smith, the early season leader, but still must catch Abner Haynes of Dallas.

Through 12 games, Haynes had 780 yards, Lowe 686 and Smith 583.

Smith leads Houston (8-4 against Buffalo (5-6-1) Sunday when the Oilers are expected to clinch the Eastern title before home fans.

The Oilers need only a victory or a tie—and not even that if the New York Titans (6-6) fail to defeat the Oakland Raiders (5-7) at San Francisco Sunday.

If Los Angeles misses today, it can back in via a tie or loss by the Dallas Texans (6-6). Dallas is home to the Boston Patriots (5-7).

Raiders Gain 3rd In Tight Contest

The important contest in Hancock County Friday night went to New Cumberland which decisioned rival Newell, 54-46, before a packed house at the New Cumberland gym.

It was only the first round, however, since the teams meet again at Newell Jan. 24, then in all probability clash in tournament play about February.

The game proved tight all the way with a series of ties developing, especially in the first half.

New Cumberland, coming with one of its finest clubs in almost a decade, led at each quarter and finally pulled away in the last eight minutes.

Coach John Kuzio's club was on top, 17-14, at the end of the first period and showed the same margin at halftime, 29-26.

Moving at a brisk pace in the third period, the quarter ended with New Cumberland still on top, 44-40. Newell was outscored 10-6 in the final period.

The victory sent the Raiders win streak to three straight while Newell dropped its first in two starts.

For the third game in a row, Charlie Miller led his team in the scoring department. He goaled 16 points with 14 coming in the first half.

In the second half, he kept an eye on Newell's high-scoring Mick Staley and did a good job of defense as he limited Staley to eight points for the game.

Jim Kiger chipped in with 12 points to aid the winners, and along with Gary Nardo who ended with eight markers, was responsible for maintaining the margin in the second half.

Tom Bell and Ron Noland again paced the Newell attack with 12 and 11 points, respectively.

New Cumberland returns to action Tuesday at Chester while Newell marks time until next Friday when the Vikings travel to Cameron.

Newell copped the reserve tilt, 49-24.

Auerback's Fiery Oration Pays Off As Celtics Win

BOSTON (AP) — Coach Red Auerbach's fiery oration on "complacency at home" has taken effect on the Boston Celtics.

The defending champions of the National Basketball Association broke a two-game losing streak, beating Cincinnati 146-123 Friday night, and set up an Eastern Division showdown with Philadelphia tonight.

The triumph in the second game of a doubleheader pulled the Celts back into a tie with the Warriors for the division lead. They play in Philadelphia tonight while Los Angeles is at St. Louis and Syracuse is at Detroit in a televised afternoon match.

Cincinnati played without Rookie flash Oscar Robertson who suffered a sprained ankle Thursday night against the Celtics.

Auerbach had erupted in anger when the Celtics lost to Syracuse here Wednesday. He told his players "You let Syracuse outscore you, out-rebound you, outhustle you."

In the other half of Friday night's doubleheader, St. Louis ran away from Syracuse 131-118.

Packers 3-Point Choice To Defeat 49ers Today

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Green Bay Packers were three-point favorites today to defeat the San Francisco 49ers, take at least a temporary lead in the Western Conference and remain in the running for a crack at their first National Football League title since 1944.

The 49ers had the home field advantage. They had a three-game winning streak, and a sizzling spread offense successful in their last two games.

But the Packers had a handsome halfback named Paul Hornung who has scored more points than anyone in NFL history.

When the Packers beat the 49ers 41-14 in October at Milwaukee, Hornung scored 23 points. He has 152 through 10 games, only 22 less than the entire 49er team.

The Packers, 49ers and Baltimore Colts started the weekend tied for the Western lead, each with 6-4.

The Colts are at Los Angeles Sunday and are 7-point favorites to make up the half-game edge slated for the winner of today's nationally televised Packers-49ers showdown—CBS, 4:30 p.m. EST.

In the event of a Green Bay-San Francisco tie, the Colts will have a chance to move a half-game in front by beating the Rams, then clinch their third straight Western title by whipping the 49ers next weekend. The Packers play at Los Angeles next week.

If the Packers, 49ers and Colts all go 1-1 for the two remaining games, the Chicago Bears (5-4-1) could take it all by beating the Browns at Cleveland Sunday and the Lions at Detroit next week.

The Lions (5-5), by defeating the Dallas Cowboys (0-10-1) at home, then the Bears, could force a four-way tie with the current leaders in the event of that three-way 1-1 split and a Bear falldown. The Lions are 13-point favorites, the Bears 7-point underdogs.

A four-way Western tie would push the title game—now set for Philadelphia on Dec. 26—back to Jan. 8. The first alternate date is Jan. 1.

With the Philadelphia Eagles (9-1) already assured of the Eastern crown, the question is who will finish second, the New York Giants (5-3-2) or the Browns (6-3-1)?

Midland Nipped By New Castle; Stanton Nets Second

Leopards Fall 54-53 In First Cage Setback

A brief brawl marked Midland's first loss in three starts Friday night when New Castle squeezed out a 54-53 decision on the Midland floor.

A battle for a loose ball touched off the melee in the fourth quarter as both benches emptied and a free-swinging affair followed. However, no one was ejected from the game.

New Castle, rated one of the powerhouses year after year in western Pennsylvania, held the upperhand most of the way but only by a slim margin.

Midland, trailing 41-36 going into the fourth quarter, shot in front in the final period, 43-42, but only briefly as the visitors came right back to grab the lead.

Carl Anderson, Midland's lone letterman, took a last ditch shot for the Leopards with 11 seconds remaining but missed.

The Leopard star was held to only 13 points. After being hampered by four fouls, coach Hank Kuzma put him on the bench in the third period.

Midland, which has been averaging about 40 per cent or better from the field, slipped to only 27 last night while New Castle fired at a 33 per cent clip.

Waggoner's 20 markers topped the New Castle five while Johnson poured in 15.

May Revise Price Guide

WASHINGTON (AP)—A case involving a natural gas firm that serves Ohio has resulted in court criticism for the Federal Power Commission. As a result, the commission may revise a price guide it put out in September. The U.S. Court of Appeals' opinions criticized the commission for failure to hold down natural gas prices. One of the cases involved Hope Natural Gas Co. of Clarksburg, W. Va., which serves utility customers in Ohio and elsewhere.

Virginia Grid Coach Awaits Formal Ousting

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Dick Voris, denied the "full support" he said he had to have, awaited formal dismissal as Virginia football coach today after three long years of defeat.

Only official action of the university Board of Visitors was needed to insure the departure of the former Army assistant whose Virginia teams have lost 28 consecutive games.

Voris himself cleared the way for his dismissal Friday when he told the board's athletic committee it should either give him "full support" or buy up the remaining year of his three-year contract. The vote of confidence was not forthcoming.

Virginia's three-season record under Voris was 1-29.

Ohio State, Iowa, Indiana Seek 3rd Straight Tonight

By The Associated Press

Ohio State and Iowa will be at home, but Indiana must play at Detroit. Ohio State entertains Army, and Iowa takes on a rugged St. Louis team.

Ohio State had to rally to overcome St. Louis 81-66. The Buckeyes also defeated Ohio University 85-64. Iowa has defeated South Dakota State, 77-75, and Evansville, 83-71, while Indiana has knocked off Indiana State, 80-53, and Kansas State, 98-80.

Purdue will be seeking its first victory after two road losses. The Boilermakers take on Ball State. In other games, Michigan (1-3) is at Drake, Maryland at Minnesota (1-2), Missouri at Northwestern (1-2) and Marquette at Wisconsin (1-2).

Social Security Recipients Given Data On Changes

The Youngstown office of the Social Security Administration said recipients of old-age and survivors benefits are receiving a little slip in the envelopes with their checks.

This is one way the administration is using to tell them of a change in the law as to how much they may earn and still receive benefits.

Under the old law, which will remain in effect the rest of this year, a person can earn as much as $1,200 a year and still receive all of his benefits. For each $80, or fraction of $80 he earns over that, however, one month's benefit is withheld. There are exceptions to this. Regardless of his total earnings a person may receive his benefit for any month he is 72 or over. He may also receive his benefit for any month he neither earns more than $100 in wages nor does substantial work in self-employment.

Beginning next year, a person may still earn as much as $1,200 and receive all of his benefits. When he earns between $1,200 and $1,500, he will have $1 in benefits withheld for each $2 he earns. For earnings of over $1,500, he will have $1 in benefits withheld for each $1 of earnings. As before, though, a person may receive his benefits for any month he neither earns wages of more than $100 nor works in self-employment, regardless of his total earnings for the year. He will still receive his benefits for any months he is 72 or over, also.

The local social security office in the Post Office has a booklet available describing the new earnings test in more detail. Or, if it's easier, one may call or write the office and ask them to send you a copy. It's free.

U.S. Leads Italy In Davis Cup As MacKay Wins

PERTH, Australia (AP)—Fighting staggering odds, stout-hearted Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, won a five-set victory over Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli today and sent the United States into an imposing 2-0 lead in the Davis Cup interzone tennis finals.

Pietrangeli, who saw eight match points go up in smoke in a heart-breaking two-day marathon, left the court in tears after MacKay had hammered out an 8-6, 3-6, 8-10, 8-6, 13-11 triumph. David Freed, said he felt so sorry for the beaten Italian star that "I could not stand up and cheer. I wanted to cry with him."

The triumph which followed Earl Buchholz's victory over Orlando Sirola in the opening singles Friday puts the Americans within one point of clinching the spot in the challenge round. They could grab this point in the doubles which were postponed today because of the length of the MacKay-Pietrangeli match. Pietrangeli and Sirola will be favored over the St. Louis schoolboy pair of Buchholz and Chuck McKinley.

The final singles now postponed until Monday sends Buchholz against Pietrangeli in the first match and MacKay against Sirola in the final.

The winner of the best of the five match series qualifies to meet Australia in the challenge round starting Dec. 26.

MacKay fought off five match points Friday in a weather-plagued match which saw Pietrangeli win two of the first three sets.

Carter finished the tenth round with a Petersen point total of 195-40, ahead of former leader Steve Nagy of St. Louis who was second with 194-40, and Bob Strampe, a 29-year-old from Detroit, who was third with 194-37.

Unidentified Ex-Champ To Face Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate boxing investigators today refused to name a former world champion who has been subpoenaed to testify. They said they feared advance exposure might place him in danger.

The unidentified ex-champ has been ordered to appear on Monday before the Senate subcommittee that hopes to rid the sport of racketeers. Also on the Monday witness list is heavyweight contender Charles (Sonny) Liston.

Liston, rated the No. 1 challenger for Floyd Patterson's title, is handled under cover by hoodlums and yields a share of his purses to them, the subcommittee was told Friday.

John G. Bonomi, a fight-probing assistant New York district attorney who is directing the Senate investigation, masked the identity of the former champion who faces questioning. He wouldn't say when the fighter reigned nor over which division.

Lt. Joseph Kuda of the St. Louis police force said Friday he had evidence that imprisoned mobster Frankie Carbo was marked in for 52 per cent of the manager's cut of Liston's fight purses. The balance of that cut, Kuda said, was divided in 12 per cent shares among Frank (Blinky) Palermo, Philadelphia racket figure; John J. Vitale, St. Louis ex-convict, and two others whose names he could not pin down.

Midland Nipped By New Castle; Stanton Nets Second

Leopards Fall 54-53 In First Cage Setback

A brief brawl marked Midland's first loss in three starts Friday night when New Castle squeezed out a 54-53 decision on the Midland floor.

A battle for a loose ball touched off the melee in the fourth quarter as both benches emptied and a free-swinging affair followed. However, no one was ejected from the game.

New Castle, rated one of the powerhouses year after year in western Pennsylvania, held the upperhand most of the way but only by a slim margin.

Midland, trailing 41-36 going into the fourth quarter, shot in front in the final period, 43-42, but only briefly as the visitors came right back to grab the lead.

Carl Anderson, Midland's lone letterman, took a last ditch shot for the Leopards with 11 seconds remaining but missed.

The Leopard star was held to only 13 points. After being hampered by four fouls, coach Hank Kuzma put him on the bench in the third period.

Midland, which has been averaging about 40 per cent or better from the field, slipped to only 27 last night while New Castle fired at a 33 per cent clip.

Waggoner's 20 markers topped the New Castle five while Johnson poured in 15.

May Revise Price Guide

WASHINGTON (AP)—A case involving a natural gas firm that serves Ohio has resulted in court criticism for the Federal Power Commission. As a result, the commission may revise a price guide it put out in September. The U.S. Court of Appeals' opinions criticized the commission for failure to hold down natural gas prices. One of the cases involved Hope Natural Gas Co. of Clarksburg, W. Va., which serves utility customers in Ohio and elsewhere.

Virginia Grid Coach Awaits Formal Ousting

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Dick Voris, denied the "full support" he said he had to have, awaited formal dismissal as Virginia football coach today after three long years of defeat.

Only official action of the university Board of Visitors was needed to insure the departure of the former Army assistant whose Virginia teams have lost 28 consecutive games.

Voris himself cleared the way for his dismissal Friday when he told the board's athletic committee it should either give him "full support" or buy up the remaining year of his three-year contract. The vote of confidence was not forthcoming.

Virginia's three-season record under Voris was 1-29.

Ohio State, Iowa, Indiana Seek 3rd Straight Tonight

By The Associated Press

Ohio State and Iowa will be at home, but Indiana must play at Detroit. Ohio State entertains Army, and Iowa takes on a rugged St. Louis team.

Ohio State had to rally to overcome St. Louis 81-66. The Buckeyes also defeated Ohio University 85-64. Iowa has defeated South Dakota State, 77-75, and Evansville, 83-71, while Indiana has knocked off Indiana State, 80-53, and Kansas State, 98-80.

Purdue will be seeking its first victory after two road losses. The Boilermakers take on Ball State. In other games, Michigan (1-3) is at Drake, Maryland at Minnesota (1-2), Missouri at Northwestern (1-2) and Marquette at Wisconsin (1-2).

Social Security Recipients Given Data On Changes

The Youngstown office of the Social Security Administration said recipients of old-age and survivors benefits are receiving a little slip in the envelopes with their checks.

This is one way the administration is using to tell them of a change in the law as to how much they may earn and still receive benefits.

Under the old law, which will remain in effect the rest of this year, a person can earn as much as $1,200 a year and still receive all of his benefits. For each $80, or fraction of $80 he earns over that, however, one month's benefit is withheld. There are exceptions to this. Regardless of his total earnings a person may receive his benefit for any month he is 72 or over. He may also receive his benefit for any month he neither earns more than $100 in wages nor does substantial work in self-employment.

Beginning next year, a person may still earn as much as $1,200 and receive all of his benefits. When he earns between $1,200 and $1,500, he will have $1 in benefits withheld for each $2 he earns. For earnings of over $1,500, he will have $1 in benefits withheld for each $1 of earnings. As before, though, a person may receive his benefits for any month he neither earns wages of more than $100 nor works in self-employment, regardless of his total earnings for the year. He will still receive his benefits for any months he is 72 or over, also.

The local social security office in the Post Office has a booklet available describing the new earnings test in more detail. Or, if it's easier, one may call or write the office and ask them to send you a copy. It's free.

U.S. Leads Italy In Davis Cup As MacKay Wins

PERTH, Australia (AP)—Fighting staggering odds, stout-hearted Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, won a five-set victory over Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli today and sent the United States into an imposing 2-0 lead in the Davis Cup interzone tennis finals.

Pietrangeli, who saw eight match points go up in smoke in a heart-breaking two-day marathon, left the court in tears after MacKay had hammered out an 8-6, 3-6, 8-10, 8-6, 13-11 triumph. David Freed, said he felt so sorry for the beaten Italian star that "I could not stand up and cheer. I wanted to cry with him."

The triumph which followed Earl Buchholz's victory over Orlando Sirola in the opening singles Friday puts the Americans within one point of clinching the spot in the challenge round. They could grab this point in the doubles which were postponed today because of the length of the MacKay-Pietrangeli match. Pietrangeli and Sirola will be favored over the St. Louis schoolboy pair of Buchholz and Chuck McKinley.

The final singles now postponed until Monday sends Buchholz against Pietrangeli in the first match and MacKay against Sirola in the final.

The winner of the best of the five match series qualifies to meet Australia in the challenge round starting Dec. 26.

MacKay fought off five match points Friday in a weather-plagued match which saw Pietrangeli win two of the first three sets.

Unidentified Ex-Champ To Face Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate boxing investigators today refused to name a former world champion who has been subpoenaed to testify. They said they feared advance exposure might place him in danger.

The unidentified ex-champ has been ordered to appear on Monday before the Senate subcommittee that hopes to rid the sport of racketeers. Also on the Monday witness list is heavyweight contender Charles (Sonny) Liston.

Liston, rated the No. 1 challenger for Floyd Patterson's title, is handled under cover by hoodlums and yields a share of his purses to them, the subcommittee was told Friday.

John G. Bonomi, a fight-probing assistant New York district attorney who is directing the Senate investigation, masked the identity of the former champion who faces questioning. He wouldn't say when the fighter reigned nor over which division.

Lt. Joseph Kuda of the St. Louis police force said Friday he had evidence that imprisoned mobster Frankie Carbo was marked in for 52 per cent of the manager's cut of Liston's fight purses. The balance of that cut, Kuda said, was divided in 12 per cent shares among Frank (Blinky) Palermo, Philadelphia racket figure; John J. Vitale, St. Louis ex-convict, and two others whose names he could not pin down.

School Group Sets Carnival

Plans for the annual Washington Home and School Association carnival April 21 at the Chester City Hall were launched at a meeting Thursday night at the school.

The group donated $25 for the annual Blue and Gold banquet of Cub Scout Pack 25 in February. Mrs. Ruth Cox Turner, president, appointed William Martin as institutional representative of the pack.

Miss Helen Allison, principal, reported American flags have been received from American Legion Post 121. Mrs. Betty French chairman of the ways and means committee, said the recent candy sale netted about $89.

It was announced the annual student Christmas party will be held Dec. 23 by the teachers.

Miss Patty Mack played Christmas selections on the piano. About 40 attended the meeting and the attendance prize was won by the first grade taught by Mrs. Max Tuttle.

The next meeting is Jan. 12.

Miss Allison and Mrs. Turner poured at a table decorated with a Christmas tree centerpiece made by Mrs. Turner.

Ohioan Wounds Estranged Wife, Kin, Kills Self

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP) — John H. Risden, 26, construction worker discharged from the Army military police in Ohio two weeks ago, seriously wounded his 20-year-old estranged wife and shot himself fatally Friday night.

Risden, police reported, also wounded his father-in - law, John Marcello, 49, as the latter rushed upstairs to warn his daughter, "John is here with a pistol."

The couple's 8-month - old son, John, slept through the tragedy.

Friday night, investigators continued, Risden appeared at the home with a 9-shot, .22 caliber pistol.

Police reported that Risden fired two shots through the glass in the front door, a third went through a wall, the fourth hit Marcello in the lower back, a fifth smashed into his wife's face just as she arrived at the top of the stairs to see what was causing the commotion.

Risden then turned the gun on himself, police said. He was dead on arrival at Portmouth Hospital where Mrs. Risden underwent emergency surgery.

City's 2 Radio Stations Sold

The East Liverpool Broadcasting Co., operators of WOHI and WOHI-FM, has asked the Federal Communications Commission to approve the sale of the stations to the Constrander Corp. of New York City.

Petitions were filed Friday in Washington.

FCC approval is expected to take about 60 days with the new owner taking over operation about Feb. 20.

Beatty said the stations were sold so he and the other owners, George T. Farrall and Michael Turk, could devote their time to other business interests. Beatty is president of the Potters Lumber and Construction firms; Farrall is president of the Midway Oil Co., and Turk is owner of Mike Turk, Inc., an auto dealership.

The Constrander firm is headed by Joseph Coons of New Haven, Conn., and Charles Stuart of Ridgewood, N. J. The other owners are David Kurland and Norman Mauser, both of New York City.

Coons, who has been sales representative for the Southern New England Bell Telephone Co. in New Haven, will be general manager and Stuart will serve as sales manager. Both expect to move here to make their homes.

Coons, who is expected here Tuesday, has indicated the present station personnel will be retained.

The sale was handled by Blackburn & Co. of Washington, radio station brokers.

WOHI went on the air Dec. 1, 1949, and is the only AM radio station in the county. An application for an increase in power now is pending before the FCC. WOHI-FM began broadcasting in September 1959.

Election Victors Ready To Resign Posts In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson intend to resign from the Senate shortly after the Electoral College makes their election as president and vice president official on Dec. 19.

The resignations will open the way for the Democratic governors of Massachusetts and Texas to appoint two new senators.

Another appointment to the new Senate will be made by Wyoming's Democratic Gov. Joe Hickey. Republican Sen.-elect Keith Thomson of Wyoming died Friday, apparently of a heart attack. Thomson, 41, was a member of the House.

Hickey does not have to appoint a Republican. The appointee will serve for two years until a successor is elected at a general election.

Johnson's decision to step out of office this month will clear the decks for Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana to step into the Texan's shoes as majority leader of the Senate as soon as it convenes.

Ike Plans More Golf, Visiting Friends Today

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — More golf and some visiting with old friends were on President Eisenhower's schedule today.

Clifford Roberts, New York investment banker and board chairman of Augusta National, was among the old friends on hand for what maybe the President's last visit here before he leaves office Jan. 20. It is Eisenhower's 28th visit to Augusta since becoming president.

Eisenhower flew in early Friday afternoon and plans to return to the capital Sunday.

School Group Sets Carnival

Plans for the annual Washington Home and School Association carnival April 21 at the Chester City Hall were launched at a meeting Thursday night at the school.

The group donated $25 for the annual Blue and Gold banquet of Cub Scout Pack 25 in February. Mrs. Ruth Cox Turner, president, appointed William Martin as institutional representative of the pack.

Miss Helen Allison, principal, reported American flags have been received from American Legion Post 121. Mrs. Betty French chairman of the ways and means committee, said the recent candy sale netted about $89.

It was announced the annual student Christmas party will be held Dec. 23 by the teachers.

Miss Patty Mack played Christmas selections on the piano. About 40 attended the meeting and the attendance prize was won by the first grade taught by Mrs. Max Tuttle.

The next meeting is Jan. 12.

Miss Allison and Mrs. Turner poured at a table decorated with a Christmas tree centerpiece made by Mrs. Turner.

Ohioan Wounds Estranged Wife, Kin, Kills Self

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP) — John H. Risden, 26, construction worker discharged from the Army military police in Ohio two weeks ago, seriously wounded his 20-year-old estranged wife and shot himself fatally Friday night.

Risden, police reported, also wounded his father-in - law, John Marcello, 49, as the latter rushed upstairs to warn his daughter, "John is here with a pistol."

The couple's 8-month - old son, John, slept through the tragedy.

Friday night, investigators continued, Risden appeared at the home with a 9-shot, .22 caliber pistol.

Police reported that Risden fired two shots through the glass in the front door, a third went through a wall, the fourth hit Marcello in the lower back, a fifth smashed into his wife's face just as she arrived at the top of the stairs to see what was causing the commotion.

Risden then turned the gun on himself, police said. He was dead on arrival at Portmouth Hospital where Mrs. Risden underwent emergency surgery.

City's 2 Radio Stations Sold

The East Liverpool Broadcasting Co., operators of WOHI and WOHI-FM, has asked the Federal Communications Commission to approve the sale of the stations to the Constrander Corp. of New York City.

Petitions were filed Friday in Washington.

FCC approval is expected to take about 60 days with the new owner taking over operation about Feb. 20.

Beatty said the stations were sold so he and the other owners, George T. Farrall and Michael Turk, could devote their time to other business interests. Beatty is president of the Potters Lumber and Construction firms; Farrall is president of the Midway Oil Co., and Turk is owner of Mike Turk, Inc., an auto dealership.

The Constrander firm is headed by Joseph Coons of New Haven, Conn., and Charles Stuart of Ridgewood, N. J. The other owners are David Kurland and Norman Mauser, both of New York City.

Coons, who has been sales representative for the Southern New England Bell Telephone Co. in New Haven, will be general manager and Stuart will serve as sales manager. Both expect to move here to make their homes.

Coons, who is expected here Tuesday, has indicated the present station personnel will be retained.

The sale was handled by Blackburn & Co. of Washington, radio station brokers.

WOHI went on the air Dec. 1, 1949, and is the only AM radio station in the county. An application for an increase in power now is pending before the FCC. WOHI-FM began broadcasting in September 1959.

Election Victors Ready To Resign Posts In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson intend to resign from the Senate shortly after the Electoral College makes their election as president and vice president official on Dec. 19.

The resignations will open the way for the Democratic governors of Massachusetts and Texas to appoint two new senators.

Another appointment to the new Senate will be made by Wyoming's Democratic Gov. Joe Hickey. Republican Sen.-elect Keith Thomson of Wyoming died Friday, apparently of a heart attack. Thomson, 41, was a member of the House.

Hickey does not have to appoint a Republican. The appointee will serve for two years until a successor is elected at a general election.

Johnson's decision to step out of office this month will clear the decks for Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana to step into the Texan's shoes as majority leader of the Senate as soon as it convenes.

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) — An 11-year-old girl was killed Friday night in a three-car collision at the intersection of Ohio 45 and U.S. 20 in East Saybrook Twp., just west of here.

The victim was Evelyn Ruck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ruck Sr., of Geneva, Ohio.

Her mother and two brothers—Stanley Jr., 6, and Robert, 3—were reported in fair condition at Ashtabula General Hospital. The father was treated for minor injuries at the hospital and released.

Also hospitalized was James Holcomb, 39, of Ashtabula, driver of another car involved in the crash.

Ike Plans More Golf, Visiting Friends Today

Clifford Roberts, New York investment banker and board chairman of Augusta National, was among the old friends on hand for what maybe the President's last visit here before he leaves office Jan. 20. It is Eisenhower's 28th visit to Augusta since becoming president.

Eisenhower flew in early Friday afternoon and plans to return to the capital Sunday.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Child Should Face The Inevitable

It is Saturday morning. The family is at breakfast. You son, nine, plans to go downtown on a personal errand. You look at him and say he ought to put on a clean shirt. "Oh, this one is all right," he says. An argument has begun and many angry words are exchanged. You eventually tell him he must put on a clean shirt. He finally does so and then storms out of the house in a rage. Since you felt sure he should put on a clean shirt, why did you say he "ought to do so", in the first place? Why didn't you calmly and decisively say, "You must put on a clean shirt"?

Dr. Garry Meyers

THEN, IF FROM earlier experiences he had learned your command was decisive and that you would do no explaining or arguing, he probably would have obeyed without a word and gone on his errand unperturbed.

From Nebraska a mother writes:

"I have a seven-year-old boy who is very impatient.

"Now, since he has started first grade, I have run into quite a tough problem.

"He will not give me a chance to explain anything to him about such things as the certain time he is to leave home for school (within walking distance); wearing dress pants rather than old jeans; the food I put in his lunch. If it just isn't his way, he storms out of the house, and I don't feel he should leave home in such an angry state of mind."

My reply in part:

Your trouble is what you do too much explaining and do it at times when an emergency is on, when your son is already strongly resistant emotionally. Then it becomes a word-battle in which he often wins his way.

—:—

RIGHT YOU ARE that he should not leave home for school in "an angry state of mind". Not only in such matters as you write of, but in hundreds of others he needs to face inevitabilities.

Quit explaining and reasoning about such matters on a school morning. On the evening before, define clearly and decisively the few rules he must observe from there on each school morning.

If you and he are calm, then you might explain in a few words why. You might even let him request the way he wishes his lunch packed. But attempt no explaining or persuading when either he or you are angry.

If he abides by the rules next morning, but still acts and talks ugly, keep your tongue quiet and your insides still.

When he learns your decisions are final, he will gradually conform to the inevitable and you and he can have happy school mornings.

My bulletins, "How to Control Your Temper" and "Tantrums: Prevention and Correction", may be had by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Coat Ignites, Burns Girl

A Wellsville girl, burned when her clothing caught fire, and five other persons injured in various mishaps were treated Friday at City Hospital.

Martha Gordon, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gordon, 506 19th St., was treated at 6:05 p.m. for second degree burns of the right thigh, first degree burns of the left thigh and burns of the hand. She was standing with her back to an open grate when her housecoat caught fire.

Wayne Hunter, 37, of Lisbon St. for a back and skull injury he said he received when his car was struck by another Thursday night.

Walter Johnson, 43, of Dodge St., received a cut of the left eyebrow while working at Caplan's Junk Yard.

Henry Cain, 28, of Hague Alley suffered a laceration of the scalp when he fell and struck his head on the curb on Dresden Ave. about midnight.

Township's Fund Shift Is Approved

The money is needed to pay for an addition being built on the township garage in LaCroft.

The trustees were notified by the Bureau of Inspection that license plates being used on township vehicles now are permanent and there will be no need to reapply each year.

Columbiana County commissioners advised the trustees that a road through Coleman Addition, running toward the Calcutta-Smiths Ferry Rd., must be widened to 60 feet before they can give assistance on opening it. The trustees had requested aid on the project.

The trustees requested prices on 1½-inch hose for the fire departments. The hose probably will be purchased early next year.

The next meeting is Dec. 23.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Cooks Shouldn't Fatten Family

Homemakers, it may be later than you think. The time to establish good food habits for your family is during the early growing-up years. This type of request is rather typical:

"I have a family who enjoys fattening foods and I cannot prepare different meals. This would be too time - consuming and costly. Can't you send me some quick diet to help me lose 20 pounds?"

By Ida Jean Kain

A few years hence, her daughter may write as this young lady did: "I'm only 15 but I'm so fat it's pitiful. You helped my mother to reduce, now will you please help me?" Moral to this: Don't bring up your daughter to be an unhappy fatty.

—:—

REALIZE THAT one of the greatest favors you can do your family is to plan meals to help them establish the food habits that will stand them in good stead all their lives.

If you, as cook, feel that you cannot control your weight on menus that form the basis of family meals, it is quite likely the menu pattern is too high in calories.

For example, a dinner menu that includes meat and gravy, potatoes or other starchy vegetable, and bread, hot or cold, butter, plus a rich dessert, is sure to be too high in calories to match today's lower fuel requirements. Unfortunately, the above pattern is the way many homemakers continue to plan meals.

The time has come to make some important changes in menu planning, not only to help the overweight members of the family, but in order to prevent overweight. Mothers, instead of taking the attitude you are depriving the family when fatteners are curbed, know you are helping them form good food habits.

You do not need to encourage them to build up an appetite for desserts! Help them to develop an appetite for foods which provide health-giving nutrients.

As a rule, family menus are planned to meet the requirements of the nomal weight members of the family . . even though some of the family members are in need of reducing. It would be helpful to plan basic menus geared to the lower calorie needs of the dieter. It is easy enough for the normal weights to add the trimmings. . . bread and butter, whole milk.

NOT ONLY would this plan keep the dieters happy while slimming, but it makes weight control easier for the entire family. Today most everyone has to curb calories somewhat.

When basic menus are not too fattening, it is so much easier to stay within bounds. Then too, on meals that are not overly rich, the teen-agers can include snacks during the day without too much danger of adding padding.

Send a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope for "Hunger Control Diet." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of this newspaper. Post card requests cannot be answered.

Gets $70,000 Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — Youngstown, Ohio, has gotten the green light from the Urban Renewal Administration to spend $70,000 of local funds for planning on its River Bend project. It involves clearing a 65-acre tract northwest of the central business district, then redeveloping it for industrial use. The city will apply for federal funds when planning is complete.

Veterans Will Receive Dividends On Insurance

An estimated 285,394 veterans in Ohio who hold participating GI life insurance will receive $14,549,650 in annual policy dividends during 1961, William Holsinger, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Cleveland, said today.

This represents Ohio GI policyholders' share in a regular national 1961 dividend totaling $258,500,000.

The dividends are a refund to policyholders as part of their premium payments. The refunds are made because the death rate among the GI policyholders continues to be lower than was estimated in the tables upon which the premium rates were established by law. Holsinger assured policyholders they will receive their dividends as always shortly after the anniversary date of their policies. He urged them not to make inquiries in advance of their policy anniversary dates, since the answering of these inquiries will divert personnel and thus delay payments.

Holsinger said that the dividends will be paid to holders of both term and permanent plan participating NSLI (World War II) and USGLI (World War I) policies.

5 Defendants Named In Suit For $20,000

LISBON — A suit for $25,000 alleging injuries received in a bar room brawl Aug. 20 at Miner's Tavern at Kensington was filed in Common Pleas Court Friday by Noah Soliday of East Sparta against 5 defendants.

They are Frank Brookman, 20, and his father, Clark Brookman, and Richard Reese, all of East Liverpool R. D. 2, Eugene Miner of Kensington tavern owners and Katherine Sertic of Salem.

Soliday said he was talking to his brother when a fight occurred.

He claims he was cut badly by a beer bottle and 200 stitches were required to repair the damage and that his nose had to be put back in place. As a result, he said he is unable to go out when the temperature goes below 50 degrees because of the pain.

Frank Brookman was tried twice for cutting with intent to wound, the first trial ending Oct. 20 in a hung jury and the second resulting in acquittal Dec. 1.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Child Should Face The Inevitable

It is Saturday morning. The family is at breakfast. You son, nine, plans to go downtown on a personal errand. You look at him and say he ought to put on a clean shirt. "Oh, this one is all right," he says. An argument has begun and many angry words are exchanged. You eventually tell him he must put on a clean shirt. He finally does so and then storms out of the house in a rage. Since you felt sure he should put on a clean shirt, why did you say he "ought to do so", in the first place? Why didn't you calmly and decisively say, "You must put on a clean shirt"?

THEN, IF FROM earlier experiences he had learned your command was decisive and that you would do no explaining or arguing, he probably would have obeyed without a word and gone on his errand unperturbed.

From Nebraska a mother writes:

"I have a seven-year-old boy who is very impatient.

"Now, since he has started first grade, I have run into quite a tough problem.

"He will not give me a chance to explain anything to him about such things as the certain time he is to leave home for school (within walking distance); wearing dress pants rather than old jeans; the food I put in his lunch. If it just isn't his way, he storms out of the house, and I don't feel he should leave home in such an angry state of mind."

My reply in part:

Your trouble is what you do too much explaining and do it at times when an emergency is on, when your son is already strongly resistant emotionally. Then it becomes a word-battle in which he often wins his way.

—:—

RIGHT YOU ARE that he should not leave home for school in "an angry state of mind". Not only in such matters as you write of, but in hundreds of others he needs to face inevitabilities.

Quit explaining and reasoning about such matters on a school morning. On the evening before, define clearly and decisively the few rules he must observe from there on each school morning.

If you and he are calm, then you might explain in a few words why. You might even let him request the way he wishes his lunch packed. But attempt no explaining or persuading when either he or you are angry.

If he abides by the rules next morning, but still acts and talks ugly, keep your tongue quiet and your insides still.

When he learns your decisions are final, he will gradually conform to the inevitable and you and he can have happy school mornings.

My bulletins, "How to Control Your Temper" and "Tantrums: Prevention and Correction", may be had by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Coat Ignites, Burns Girl

A Wellsville girl, burned when her clothing caught fire, and five other persons injured in various mishaps were treated Friday at City Hospital.

Martha Gordon, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gordon, 506 19th St., was treated at 6:05 p.m. for second degree burns of the right thigh, first degree burns of the left thigh and burns of the hand. She was standing with her back to an open grate when her housecoat caught fire.

Wayne Hunter, 37, of Lisbon St. for a back and skull injury he said he received when his car was struck by another Thursday night.

Walter Johnson, 43, of Dodge St., received a cut of the left eyebrow while working at Caplan's Junk Yard.

Henry Cain, 28, of Hague Alley suffered a laceration of the scalp when he fell and struck his head on the curb on Dresden Ave. about midnight.

Township's Fund Shift Is Approved

The money is needed to pay for an addition being built on the township garage in LaCroft.

The trustees were notified by the Bureau of Inspection that license plates being used on township vehicles now are permanent and there will be no need to reapply each year.

Columbiana County commissioners advised the trustees that a road through Coleman Addition, running toward the Calcutta-Smiths Ferry Rd., must be widened to 60 feet before they can give assistance on opening it. The trustees had requested aid on the project.

The trustees requested prices on 1½-inch hose for the fire departments. The hose probably will be purchased early next year.

The next meeting is Dec. 23.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Cooks Shouldn't Fatten Family

Homemakers, it may be later than you think. The time to establish good food habits for your family is during the early growing-up years. This type of request is rather typical:

By Ida Jean Kain

"I have a family who enjoys fattening foods and I cannot prepare different meals. This would be too time - consuming and costly. Can't you send me some quick diet to help me lose 20 pounds?"

A few years hence, her daughter may write as this young lady did: "I'm only 15 but I'm so fat it's pitiful. You helped my mother to reduce, now will you please help me?" Moral to this: Don't bring up your daughter to be an unhappy fatty.

—:—

REALIZE THAT one of the greatest favors you can do your family is to plan meals to help them establish the food habits that will stand them in good stead all their lives.

If you, as cook, feel that you cannot control your weight on menus that form the basis of family meals, it is quite likely the menu pattern is too high in calories.

For example, a dinner menu that includes meat and gravy, potatoes or other starchy vegetable, and bread, hot or cold, butter, plus a rich dessert, is sure to be too high in calories to match today's lower fuel requirements. Unfortunately, the above pattern is the way many homemakers continue to plan meals.

The time has come to make some important changes in menu planning, not only to help the overweight members of the family, but in order to prevent overweight. Mothers, instead of taking the attitude you are depriving the family when fatteners are curbed, know you are helping them form good food habits.

You do not need to encourage them to build up an appetite for desserts! Help them to develop an appetite for foods which provide health-giving nutrients.

As a rule, family menus are planned to meet the requirements of the nomal weight members of the family . . even though some of the family members are in need of reducing. It would be helpful to plan basic menus geared to the lower calorie needs of the dieter. It is easy enough for the normal weights to add the trimmings. . . bread and butter, whole milk.

NOT ONLY would this plan keep the dieters happy while slimming, but it makes weight control easier for the entire family. Today most everyone has to curb calories somewhat.

When basic menus are not too fattening, it is so much easier to stay within bounds. Then too, on meals that are not overly rich, the teen-agers can include snacks during the day without too much danger of adding padding.

Send a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope for "Hunger Control Diet." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of this newspaper. Post card requests cannot be answered.

Gets $70,000 Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — Youngstown, Ohio, has gotten the green light from the Urban Renewal Administration to spend $70,000 of local funds for planning on its River Bend project. It involves clearing a 65-acre tract northwest of the central business district, then redeveloping it for industrial use. The city will apply for federal funds when planning is complete.

Veterans Will Receive Dividends On Insurance

An estimated 285,394 veterans in Ohio who hold participating GI life insurance will receive $14,549,650 in annual policy dividends during 1961, William Holsinger, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Cleveland, said today.

This represents Ohio GI policyholders' share in a regular national 1961 dividend totaling $258,500,000.

The dividends are a refund to policyholders as part of their premium payments. The refunds are made because the death rate among the GI policyholders continues to be lower than was estimated in the tables upon which the premium rates were established by law. Holsinger assured policyholders they will receive their dividends as always shortly after the anniversary date of their policies. He urged them not to make inquiries in advance of their policy anniversary dates, since the answering of these inquiries will divert personnel and thus delay payments.

Holsinger said that the dividends will be paid to holders of both term and permanent plan participating NSLI (World War II) and USGLI (World War I) policies.

5 Defendants Named In Suit For $20,000

LISBON — A suit for $25,000 alleging injuries received in a bar room brawl Aug. 20 at Miner's Tavern at Kensington was filed in Common Pleas Court Friday by Noah Soliday of East Sparta against 5 defendants.

They are Frank Brookman, 20, and his father, Clark Brookman, and Richard Reese, all of East Liverpool R. D. 2, Eugene Miner of Kensington tavern owners and Katherine Sertic of Salem.

Soliday said he was talking to his brother when a fight occurred.

He claims he was cut badly by a beer bottle and 200 stitches were required to repair the damage and that his nose had to be put back in place. As a result, he said he is unable to go out when the temperature goes below 50 degrees because of the pain.

Frank Brookman was tried twice for cutting with intent to wound, the first trial ending Oct. 20 in a hung jury and the second resulting in acquittal Dec. 1.

SANTA and the BOY FISH by Lucrece Hudgins Beale

Michael has arrived in Santa Land in the midst of a crisis. A very old man named Costenbricker has put Santa's elves and reindeer to sleep. He refuses to awaken them until Santa produces a black pearl. Unless the eleves are awakened, Santa will have no presents to deliver for Christmas.

CHAPTER SIX

"My elves never sleep at this time of year!" exclaimed Santa. "They have to work day and night or we'd never be ready for Christmas."

"They are asleep now," said Costenbricker, calmly tapping his parasol against his heel.

"It's true," cried Mrs. Santa. "I've seen them myself! Oh, it's awful!" She began to flap her apron more wildly than ever.

"Then I'll wake them!" said Santa crossly. "This will never do." He rushed from the house with Michael and Mrs. Santa at his heels and Costenbricker shuffling along ten paces behind.

"I don't believe it, I don't believe it," muttered Santa as he ran puffing through the snow drifts. But when he threw open the door of the workshop he saw that it was true; every little worker was fast asleep.

Michael stared about him in dismay. The dollmakers lay limply among heaps of painted heads and rubber bodies looking themselves like dolls someone had forgotten to finish. The drum-makers slept curled in their drums. The firecracker experts made sputtering noises as they snored at their benches.

MUFFIN, the whistle-maker, lay in a corner and snorted as he breathed in and whistled as he breathed out. Toy wagons were loaded with napping elves and Gilbert, the stilt-maker, slept among the rafters where he'd dozed off while trying out some high stilts.

"Wake up, wake up!" cried Santa rushing from table to table. He pounded on the backs of the sleeping elves, shook their shoulders, shouted in their ears. Nothing would wake them.

Santa turned on Costenbricker. "What's the meaning of this? What have you done?"

"He's cast a spell," moaned Mrs. Santa. "He came in here and said some magic words and they all fell asleep. Oh, what's to become of us?"

"Now, now," said Costenbricker, settling down with a sigh into a half finished doll's chair. "There's nothing to get overwrought about. When you have gotten me my black pearl I will say some more words and all your little workers will wake up and do even better work for having had such a good rest."

"The ship carrying the pearl went down," he said.

"Where would I get a black pearl?" demanded Santa. "It's the rarest gem in the world."

"I know where there is one," said Costenbricker. "It belongs to me."

"Then why do you come to me?"

"Because, unfortunately, my pearl lies at the bottom of the seas and alas! I cannot swim and am too old to learn. But you can do anything, go anywhere, and so you can get my pearl!"

"What makes you think your pearl is in the ocean?"

—:—

COSTENBRICKER pulled a crumpled map from his pocket and pointed to an X which marked a spot in a southern sea. "Centuries ago, a ship sank on this very spot and treasure that was on her is on her still."

Bosh! How do you know that's true?"

"Because," said Costenbricker, twirling his parasol. "I was on the ship and the pearl was mine. When the ship went down I floated away in an empty keg but the pearl stayed behind. It was a gem of great worth. Whoever carries it stays young forever. I am old now, my hands tremble, my mind wanders, I forget things I used to know. I must have the pearl to restore my youth."

"It's impossible!" cried Stanta "I cannot get it for you. Neither I nor any other elf can go into the sea!"

Costenbricker's eyes widened in astonishment. "I didn't know that! Oh dear, what shall I do now?"

"You'll say the words that will waken my workers, that's what you will do," said Santa indignantly.

"Yes, yes," nodded Costenbricker vaguely. "There's certainly no reason to keep them asleep if you can't help me."

He scratched thoughtfully at his bald head and gazed up at the ceiling. Three times he opened his mouth to speak and three times he shut it again. His shoulders began to droop. He looked very said.

Finally he signed heavily and said, "I'm sorry. I can't remember the words."

Cumberland To Begin Curfew Enforcement

NEW CUMBERLAND — A curfew siren will blow Monday night as Town Council enforces the ordinance requiring all children 16 and under to be home by 10.

Council has given second reading to the proposed amendment which would ban parking on both sides of Ridge Ave., a narrow section of State Route 2 running through the town.

The needed space may be taken from the sidewalks in order to provide room for two-way traffic.

Councilmen Matthew Phillips and Sam Minesinger and Mrs. Margaret Brown have been named to a committee to investigate possibility of using the sidewalk space and present a report to Council by the next meeting Jan. 3.

Seek Water Source

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — The Trumbull County commissioners have asked the U.S. Army Engineers for permission to use Mosquito Lake as a source of water for residents of Howland and Champion Twps. If permission is granted, a central distribution and treatment plant will be needed. The facilities probably would be financed by a bond issue.

Traffic Light Ruined When Struck By Truck

The traffic light on Harvey Ave. at Putnam St. was smahsed beyond repair Friday when struck by an unidentified truck.

Apparently the signal was hit by a high van headed east on Harvey Ave., as parts of the light were scattered between Putnam St. and the state line. However, city officials did not learn of the mishap until the signal was reported out of service.

The intersection now is without a traffic signal, at least temporarily. Damage to the light was estimated at $200.

THE BIBLE CAN SOLVE YOUR PROBLEMS

By BILLY GRAHAM

In answering questions often asked of him, this noted evangelist proves that the Scriptures still hold the best hope for man's spiritual and moral dilemmas

■ WHEREVER I GO, I hear unhappy people asking for help. With their families breaking up, their children running wild, and their own lives plunging toward the depths, they cannot help themselves.

For many years, I have searched the Scriptures for answers to questions that have come to me through my evangelistic crusades, broadcasts, and syndicated newspaper column. I have read many books and consulted professors of psychology, sociology, and philosophy, but always I have returned to the Bible for the basis of my answers.

Here are some of them, which are expanded upon in my new book, "My Answer" (published by Doubleday & Co., Garden City, N.Y.). My devout hope is that they might equally be called God's answers, for I have a deep conviction that the Bible holds the answer to every moral problem known to man. There is no better time to turn to it than today, which is Universal Bible Sunday.

FROM A COLLEGE GIRL, CLASS OF '61:

"I am in love with a fine young man, but if we go ahead with our marriage plans it will break my parents' hearts. To what extent is one obligated to parents?

The Bible teaches us that we are to honor our parents, but it does not teach that they have the right to control their adult children. When you were directly responsible to them, you were obedient in all things. Such a relationship does not continue when adulthood is reached. You should still honor them as parents, but you are not obligated to forego the joys of married life and your own family for them.

FROM A YOUTHFUL SCIENTIST:

"I am a student of the physical sciences. If people should inhabit other planets, what does this do to our faith?"

From my studies, I can find nothing that would change our essential faith in the Gospel if we did discover life on other planets. Our Bible is clearly designed for this planet with its problems of man's sin. It is not a part of the Bible's message to inform us of what God has done elsewhere.

FROM A DESPERATE GIRL:

"Can God forgive an unwed mother?"

Of course He can and will, though He loathes the sin of immorality as He does all sin. All through the Bible we see examples of God forgiving this sin. Mary Magdalene, the adulteress, and the woman at Jacob's Well had crossed the line of propriety, but they found forgiveness in Christ.

FROM A BUSINESS WOMAN:

"I work in an office where racy stories and sexy conversations are all the vogue. How can I cope with this without being prudish or appearing better-than-thou?"

A businessman in Florida who faced a similar problem wrote me that he found an effective way to lick it. He kept a New Testament on his desk in plain view of everyone. He said that he has yet to have anyone come into his office who did not respect this silent reminder and refrain from profanity and smutty stories.

FROM A LONELY HEART:

"I never seem to be able to make and hold friends. I need friends as much as anyone. Is there some hidden secret to the business of making and keeping friends?"

There is no hidden secret. To have friends, you must first be friendly. You must offer unselfish friendship to another and expect nothing in exchange. The Bible offers the world's best example when it says of God that "We love Him because He first loved us." You may think your problem has no religious implication, but it does. Man left without God is basically selfish. Christians find their joy in giving themselves, even as Christ gave Himself, and they are never without friends.

FROM A DISCONTENTED MATRON:

"I am married to a very wonderful person, but I have fallen in love with another man who shows me the attention I crave, while my husband seems to take me for granted. I feel I cannot give up the one I love but don't know how to break the news to my husband. What is the right thing to do?"

If you still consider your husband a wonderful person and you respect him, you are playing the part of a foolish child. As for his taking you for granted, you should consider that as flattery for it manifests the great confidence he has in you. Follow the Bible's admonition and be obedient and submissive to your husband, and you will find him much more affectionate than you think. This infatuation is a sin in God's sight. Confess it and allow this experience to bring you to a true relationship with Christ and with your husband.

FROM A DISCOURAGED INVALID:

"I am crippled with arthritis and feel that I'm useless. What is the use of my living any longer?"

God does not think you are useless. He needs all kinds of people to do His work. I know a boy without arms who paints with his toes. The lad's courage has inspired many to forget their handicaps. God has something special for you to do, too. Ask God how you can serve Him, and He will tell you. We cannot understand why illness comes, but even when we suffer we must still trust our Heavenly Father. Pray for others as well as yourself. No prayer is ever wasted.

FROM A BAFFLED CHURCHGOER:

"What good is religion? My neighbor never goes to church, runs around, and is mean to his family. But he has a bigger house, more money, and more reasons to be happy than people who are trying to live right."

I say your neighbor is a miserable failure and if you envy such success, your life is doomed to failure, too. What good is religion? True religion gives meaning and purpose to life. It crowns the home with love and affection. It brings a person into harmony with God's law, cures him of infidelity and of selfish greed. Learn again the wisdom in these words of Jesus: "The abundance of a man's life consisteth not in the things which he possesseth."

The ultimate question I must answer whenever I speak or write is this:

"Is the Gospel of the first century relevant for our present time?"

Look at it this way. Has human nature improved significantly over the centuries? Are men and women gradually overcoming immorality, dishonesty, greed, passion, love of pleasure, hatred, and all the other evils named in the Bible?

Certainly, the Gospel of the first century is relevant today; in fact, it is the only answer to man's present moral and spiritual dilemma.

As for his taking you for granted, you should consider that as flattery for it manifests the great confidence he has in you. Follow the Bible's admonition and be obedient and submissive to your husband, and you will find him much more affectionate than you think. This infatuation is a sin in God's sight. Confess it and allow this experience to bring you to a true relationship with Christ and with your husband.

FROM A DISCOURAGED INVALID:

"I am crippled with arthritis and feel that I'm useless. What is the use of my living any longer?"

God does not think you are useless. He needs all kinds of people to do His work. I know a boy without arms who paints with his toes. The lad's courage has inspired many to forget their handicaps. God has something special for you to do, too. Ask God how you can serve Him, and He will tell you. We cannot understand why illness comes, but even when we suffer we must still trust our Heavenly Father. Pray for others as well as yourself. No prayer is ever wasted.

FROM A BAFFLED CHURCHGOER:

"What good is religion? My neighbor never goes to church, runs around, and is mean to his family. But he has a bigger house, more money, and more reasons to be happy than people who are trying to live right."

I say your neighbor is a miserable failure and if you envy such success, your life is doomed to failure, too. What good is religion? True religion gives meaning and purpose to life. It crowns the home with love and affection. It brings a person into harmony with God's law, cures him of infidelity and of selfish greed. Learn again the wisdom in these words of Jesus: "The abundance of a man's life consisteth not in the things which he possesseth."

The ultimate question I must answer whenever I speak or write is this:

"Is the Gospel of the first century relevant for our present time?"

Look at it this way. Has human nature improved significantly over the centuries? Are men and women gradually overcoming immorality, dishonesty, greed, passion, love of pleasure, hatred, and all the other evils named in the Bible?

Certainly, the Gospel of the first century is relevant today; in fact, it is the only answer to man's present moral and spiritual dilemma.

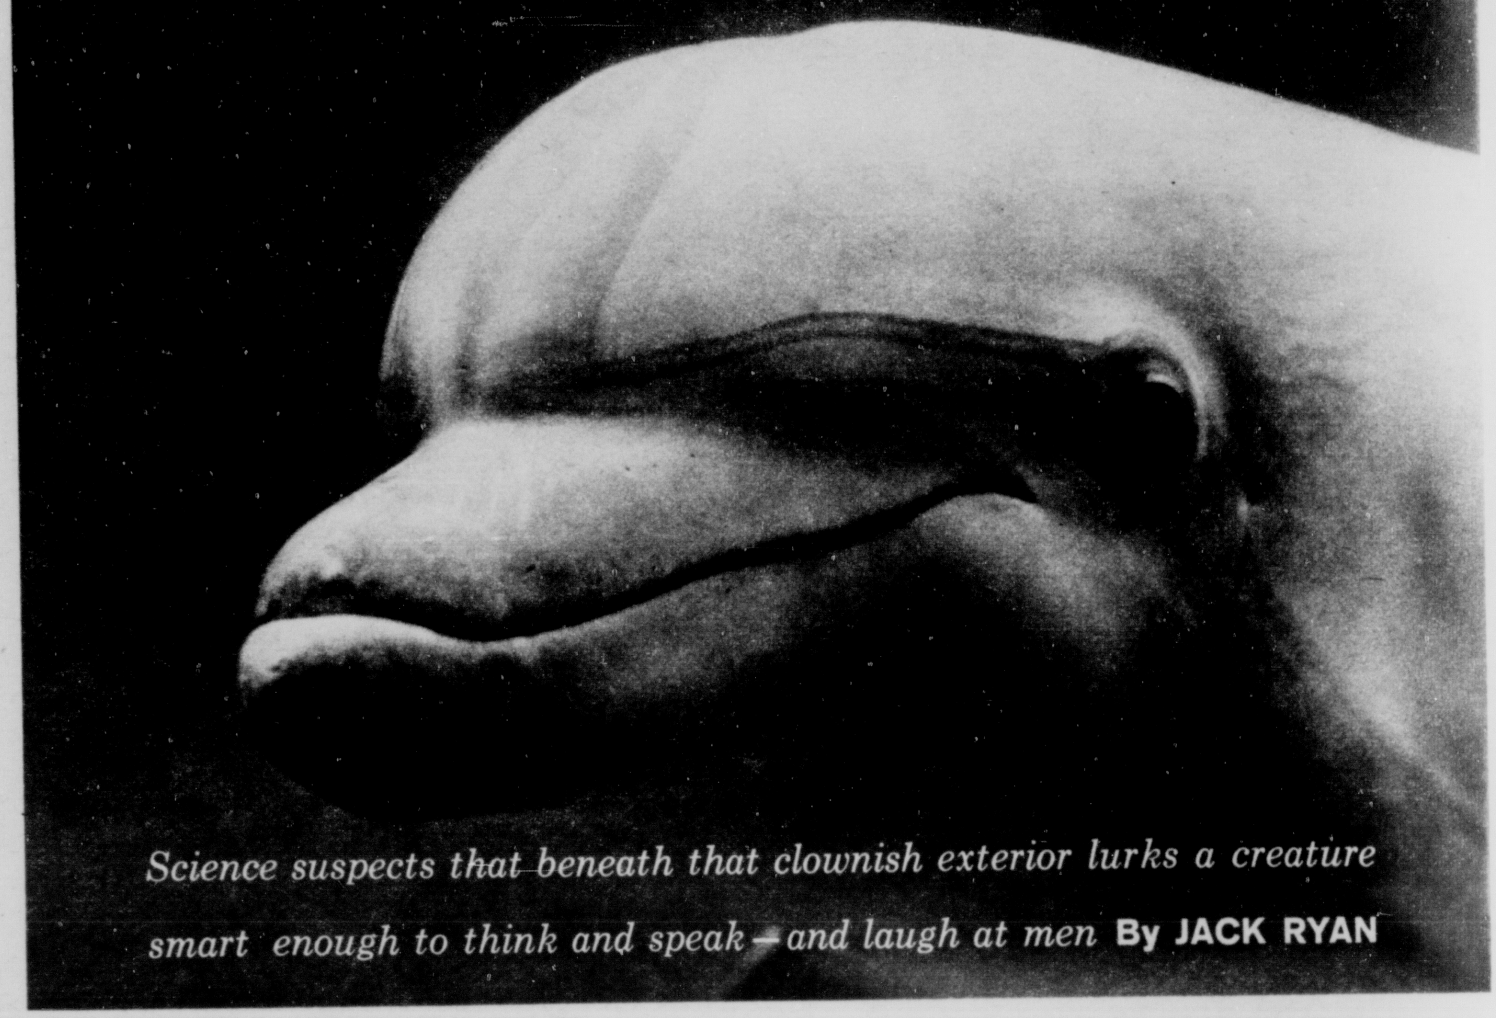
How Human Is the Porpoise?



Science suspects that beneath that clownish exterior lurks a creature smart enough to think and speak—and laugh at men By JACK RYAN

IT WAS A MYSTERY that the locksmith at Marineland, Fla., couldn't solve. His bolt-locking device was perfect for the job of securing the gates of the porpoise pond so the clowns of the ocean couldn't enter a large tank where they would spend all night at play.

Yet every morning the lock was opened, and porpoises were splashing happily in off-limits water. Attendants set up a night watch. When it was dark and still, some of the younger porpoises darted to the lock. One steadied the gate while another nuzzled back the bolt. Then both pulled open the gates, quacked a few Donald Duck sounds, and the whole porpoise colony frolicked into the play tank.

The ability of a porpoise to recognize and solve problems has posed a favorite question for scientists in recent years. How human is this happy-go-lucky mammal?

Navy researcher Dr. John Lilly, a neurophysiologist, has come to these conclusions: the porpoise may be superior to the chimpanzee in ability, in some cases learning a trick in one attempt when it has taken a monkey 300 tries; he has a brain structure comparable to the human's—40 percent heavier with the same number of cells per cubic centimeter; and he can "talk" in a series of some 20 different sounds which conceivably man could learn.

If man ever does "talk" to the porpoise, or dolphin as he's often called, it won't be to learn how he gets such a kick out of life; instead, we'll want him to tell us how to fight wars better and how to conquer space.

The porpoise has a sonar system—a method of "seeing" what's around him by sending out sounds and receiving echoes—that our submarines could use. With it they could dodge the submerged nets and mines to enter enemy harbors. The dolphin also can withstand sudden changes in pressures, an ability our space men would like to copy.

There's a sizable group of sentimentalists who feel that as long as dolphins have such a peaceful existence, we shouldn't burden them with our problems, but F. G. Wood, Jr., curator of Marineland, suspects they don't mind.

In 1955 his crew captured a young female porpoise and named her Priscilla. Although she was a dunce among the dolphins, scientists pampered her until she became a local pet. But this is a no-nonsense world, and when Priscilla couldn't learn to perform for audiences or tell scientists anything they didn't already know, she was returned to the sea.

Two years later, an epidemic killed many of the captive porpoises, and a fishing crew was sent to sea for replacements. During one cruise, a dolphin spotted their boat and obligingly teased them into following it into shallow water. At this depth, about all they had to do was help it aboard.

Experts at Marineland were surprised at the ease of capture. The dolphin's antics were not normal. When Dr. Wood heard how the porpoise also docilely ate out of crewmen's hands and whistled for more, he had a hunch and dispatched an assistant to look at the catch. He found a mature porpoise, lying contentedly on the bottom of the tank, nuzzling some Marineland toys. The assistant called Wood.

"You were right—Priscilla has come home."

Porpoises love to retrieve things for humans—pretty or not.

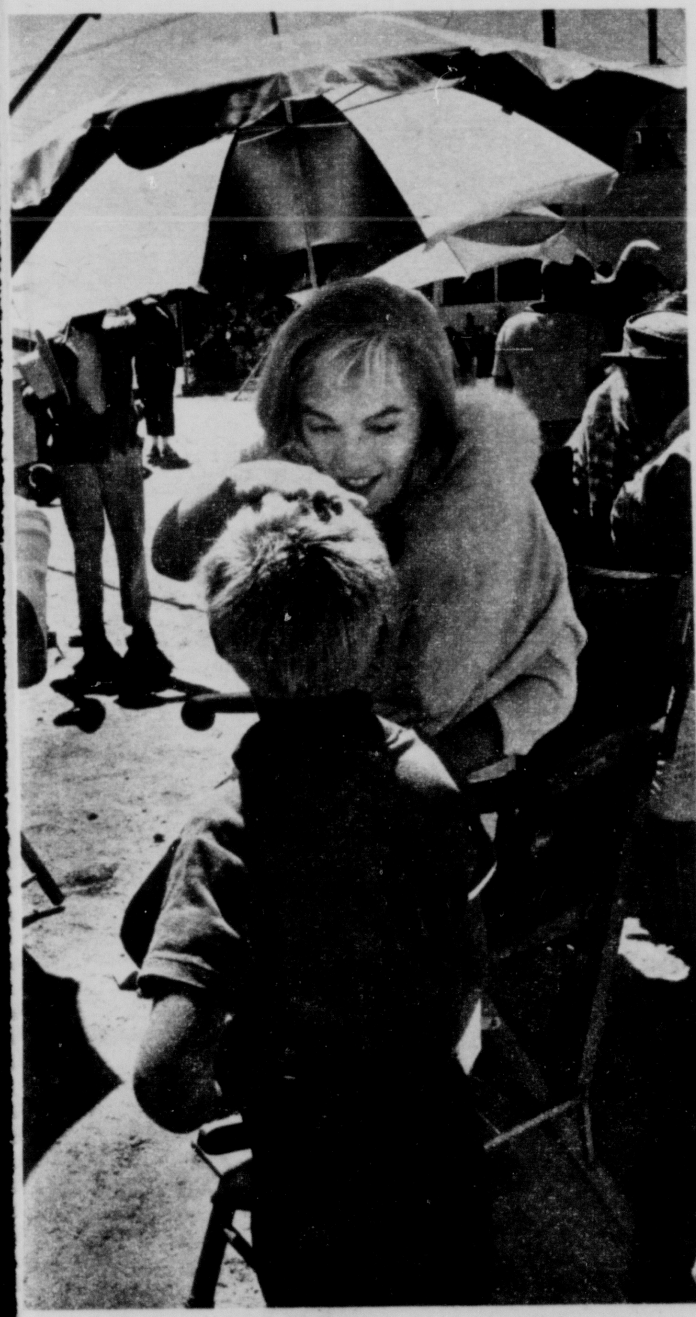
Marilyn Monroe tells:

"The Role I Most Wanted to Play—MOTHER"



Marilyn's love for children is quite apparent as she chats with a little boy on the set of "The Misfits."

As the Arthur Millers bring their four-year marriage to a close, Marilyn reveals the frustrated wish for a child which haunted their relationship

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

MARILYN MONROE was nearly exhausted as the Reno, Nev., sun pushed the mercury up to 115 degrees, plaguing the cast and crew of "The Misfits."

Struggling to catch her breath, she noticed young Dennis Shaw, who plays James Barton's grandson in the movie. Beads of perspiration covered the boy's face as he tried to hold his own against the blazing desert sun. Marilyn's expressive eyes mirrored her concern as she hurried to Dennis' side, took his cap, and gently fanned him with it, ignoring the heat herself.

Although she is often unpredictable, Marilyn's action surprised many of her co-workers. They were even more amazed later at her response to a young fan who wanted to take her picture.

The lad approached the actress, aimed his camera at her, and asked if she would pose for him.

Marilyn—who has absolute approval over all pictures taken of her and goes over each one with a magnifying glass before releasing it—smiled, said "All right," and posed.

The boy looked at her wide-eyed, then turned and ran away—without taking the picture.

Had an adult, especially a professional photographer, sought Marilyn's picture, chances are she would not even have bothered to answer, but would have turned on her heel and stalked away.

With children, Marilyn is different. She loves kids. Before the recent breakup of her marriage to Arthur Miller, she keenly enjoyed playing with her stepchildren by Miller's first marriage, Bobby, 13, and Jane, 15. And on location, she always takes time to play with youngsters on the set.

Marilyn herself readily admits that she will do things for kids she wouldn't dream of doing for grownups. She frankly insists that there is no role—not even the most serious character in a Shakespearean drama—which could mean more to her than that of being a mother.

Twice she has been thwarted in her attempts to achieve motherhood.

The first time, in August, 1957, occurred just a few weeks after she had become pregnant. Marilyn was disappointed, of course, but was sure she would eventually bear a child. When she lost her second baby, however, Marilyn was severely shaken and developed a strong feeling of guilt.

Twice she has been thwarted in her attempts to achieve motherhood.

The first time, in August, 1957, occurred just a few weeks after she had become pregnant. Marilyn was disappointed, of course, but was sure she would eventually bear a child. When she lost her second baby, however, Marilyn was severely shaken and developed a strong feeling of guilt.

Before their separation, husband Arthur Miller proved to be a guiding force in Marilyn's acting career and tried to help her overcome the sadness of childlessness.

She had become expectant while filming "Some Like It Hot" in 1958, and her doctors decided she could complete the picture only by taking a "calculated risk." When Marilyn lost the baby, she blamed herself because she had worked too hard. "But I couldn't just stop in the middle of the picture. I had agreed to do the film," she told me. "I had a responsibility to my co-workers."

Marilyn's desire to have a baby is only natural, intensified by the memories of her own childhood. A ward of Los Angeles County, she was shuttled from orphanage to foster home and back again. Some of her foster parents took her in mainly for the $20 a month the county paid them to care for her, and she received little if any affection.

SHE STARTED school before she even knew her real mother was still alive but was too ill to take care of her. She vividly remembers her first day in school. Marilyn—then Norma Jean—was sent to school alone. All of the other six-year-olds had a mother or father with them, but Norma Jean stood in line by herself.

"Where are your parents, little girl?" one of the teachers finally asked her. From Norma Jean's hesitant answers, the teacher concluded that both her parents were dead.

The little girl behind Norma Jean whispered to her mother, "Mommy, that girl's an orphan."

"At that, I leaned against the wall and cried my heart out," Marilyn recalled.

These early years made Marilyn promise herself that she would someday become a "real" mother and have children who would know the meaning of love and affection. Although she is not yet a mother, she has formed some very definite ideas on how she will play her role.

For example, because of her own unsettled childhood—she had lived in 12 different homes by the time she was 15!—she is determined that her own child will have a sense of security.

"I think it's terribly important for parents to give a child a good emotional education," she explained. "A child needs more than food and shelter. He needs love and security. And we're so concerned today about what things like Strontium 90 will do to the generations to come that we're not spending nearly enough time helping our children find a place for themselves in today's world."

When Marilyn realized she was pregnant the first time, she and Arthur Miller wanted to find a house suitable for raising a family. "We knew of a section near Roxbury, Conn.," Marilyn said, "which we thought was perfect. It was near Arthur's former home. And we knew that in New York there would be no problem while the baby was small. As he or she grew older, we could spend a lot of time in places like Central Park."

The failure of her marriage has not changed Marilyn's ideas about raising a child. Should she ever realize her ambition to be a mother, she would work to give him a feeling of permanence and security and some place "to come home to," when she went on location for films. On short trips for filming, she would take her youngster along with her.

Marilyn will see to it, however, that these absences do not impair her child's education and will have a tutor when necessary. Marilyn will not insist that her child go to college and says the choice of a career will be completely up to the child. This includes whether or not the child goes into show business. "I realize it takes more thought to raise a child in show business," Marilyn said, "but it doesn't need to work out badly. Look at Walter Huston's son John (director of 'The Misfits'). No one can complain about how he turned out."

Because of the early hardships she experienced, Marilyn is conscious that she may easily go overboard in the other direction and spoil her child with too much affection as well as material things. She believes that "you can't give a child too much love," but she knows that you have to be careful how you show it, as with presents.

Marilyn remembers many barren Christmases in foster homes—particularly the time she was living with a family made up entirely of women and girls. On holidays the other girls were given gay red dresses, while hers was a hand-me-down brown one. Another year, other children unwrapped dolls and similar elaborate toys, but Marilyn had to be content with a 10-cent manicure set.

Her concern for selecting the "right" type of gifts was already evident when she was in England to film "The Prince and the Showgirl" over three years ago. To get presents for her stepchildren, she spent two hours in a toy store and tried out most of the toys herself.

REMEMBRANCES of her many foster parents who wielded heavy hands have influenced Marilyn's attitude toward discipline. Since the time when a blow sent her reeling across the room, she has been determined never to spank her child. Discipline will involve the taking away of privileges, but Marilyn will make a special effort to see that she is fair. Too vivid is the memory of her birthday when someone gave her a card and a 50-cent piece.

"Give me that," her foster mother cried out when she saw the money.

"But it's mine," Marilyn protested.

"You dirtied your dress today, so I'll have to take this away as your punishment," the woman came back, and Marilyn could do nothing but watch her 50 cents disappear into the woman's pocket.

Marilyn's child, of course, will not go without anything he needs and will have many "extras." Marilyn remembers when she was about eight years old and wanted a bicycle quite badly. "But it was impossible to get one because I didn't have the money, and there were no jobs, such as baby-sitting, in the neighborhood," she explained.

HER FIRST real job for money came when she was living at the orphanage at the age of nine. She set tables for five cents a month and later washed dishes for 10 cents, but all the money went into a fund to buy "practical" gifts such as pencils and notebooks for the other children at the orphanage.

In addition to her own unhappy childhood, Marilyn has had to face up to mental illness in her family. In 1934, when Marilyn's mother was committed to an institution for the second time, Marilyn learned that both her mother's parents had been in mental hospitals and an uncle had committed suicide. There was one incident that still haunts her above all others.

One day, when she was about eight, Marilyn decided to run around the block just for the fun of it. Some boys stopped her and wanted to know what she was doing, but another said, "Don't bother her. She's just like her mother—crazy."

It was one of the cruel barbs of youth, but it could have affected Marilyn's attitude toward motherhood. Instead, her own determination has eliminated fears that she may someday face similar problems with her own child. It is ironic and sad that much credit for this goes to Arthur Miller.

So now, even in personal tragedy, Marilyn Monroe looks forward hopefully to playing the part that means most to her— mother.

In addition to her own unhappy childhood, Marilyn has had to face up to mental illness in her family. In 1934, when Marilyn's mother was committed to an institution for the second time, Marilyn learned that both her mother's parents had been in mental hospitals and an uncle had committed suicide. There was one incident that still haunts her above all others.

One day, when she was about eight, Marilyn decided to run around the block just for the fun of it. Some boys stopped her and wanted to know what she was doing, but another said, "Don't bother her. She's just like her mother—crazy."

It was one of the cruel barbs of youth, but it could have affected Marilyn's attitude toward motherhood. Instead, her own determination has eliminated fears that she may someday face similar problems with her own child. It is ironic and sad that much credit for this goes to Arthur Miller.

So now, even in personal tragedy, Marilyn Monroe looks forward hopefully to playing the part that means most to her— mother.

STOP PIMPLES! OILY SKIN TO CHECK

Don't pick, scratch, squeeze or merely "cover them up"

Doctors know that acne or pimples are caused by the germ called the acne bacillus. These germs invade overactive oil glands in the skin, cause blackheads and pus pockets; then your skin "breaks out."

What's needed is (1) to dry up the excessive oil that collects on skin; (2) to destroy acne germs on the skin, and (3) to stop itching and irritation so pimples can heal.

A doctor's formula, liquid Zemo has this effective 3-way action; also keeps skin looking cleaner!

The Old Oaken Bucket Seat

The chin marks on my knees turn blue;
I clutch and sway, bent almost double:
In midget cars the rider who
Is not a midget's in for trouble.

The owner, shifting countless gears,
Whips wildly round the cars we pass,
And gloats, the while he madly steers,
On how this baby saves the gas.

And hanging on with tooth and talon,
My view of midget cars is strong:
What if they get more miles per gallon,
When every mile is twice as long!

—Georgie Starbuck Galbraith

At a birthday party for his beloved wife, a husband extolled her many virtues—her beauty, economy, patience, and temperament. "She has made me a wealthy man," he concluded proudly.

"No wonder," snapped a catty neighbor. "She even budgeted the birthday-cake candles to 39!"

"I take it you had the same kind of day I did?"

The schoolteacher was trying to impress upon the children the need for dressing warmly during the winter. "Why, I know a boy who took his sled out in the snow without bundling up beforehand. He caught pneumonia and almost died. He won't be able to go out all winter."

The awed silence was broken by a small boy's voice: "Any chance of borrowing his sled?" —Paul Steiner

"If he says you can buy a new dress, can I climb up and get it off that top shelf in the closet?"

After long arguments, the big-game sportsman finally agreed to take his wife on a hunting trip to Africa. When they returned months later, he had virtually no trophies, but his wife proudly displayed a superb lion's head.

"Did she hit it with that .303X Magnum rifle you bought her?" a friend asked the husband.

"No," he replied sourly, "she hit it with the 1960 station wagon we rented." —Dan Bennett

STOP PIMPLES! OILY SKIN TO CHECK

Don't pick, scratch, squeeze or merely "cover them up"

Doctors know that acne or pimples are caused by the germ called the acne bacillus. These germs invade overactive oil glands in the skin, cause blackheads and pus pockets; then your skin "breaks out."

What's needed is (1) to dry up the excessive oil that collects on skin; (2) to destroy acne germs on the skin, and (3) to stop itching and irritation so pimples can heal.

A doctor's formula, liquid Zemo has this effective 3-way action; also keeps skin looking cleaner!

Carbon makes trouble. Just a tiny bit extra on a vital engine part can easily waste 10% of your gasoline and cost you an extra 50 cents or more on each tankful you buy. And carbon can lead to engine roughness, costly spark plug replacement and other repair bills.

Gulf controls carbon. Gulf concentrates on producing clean-burning gasoline components. Gulf's super-refining process actually minimizes those components that burn dirty and leave excessive carbon deposits.

New Gulf gasolines are specially formulated to control carbon. Each of these new gasolines is higher in octane rating, higher in all-around performance. Get with these great new gasolines! Go Gulf for 30 days, and see for yourself! GULF OIL CORPORATION.

Beat 1 egg and combine with 4 squares Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate, 1 cup sugar, and ¾ cup milk in saucepan. Cook and stir over low heat until chocolate melts and mixture thickens. Cool to room temperature.

Mix ¼ cup butter and ½ cup vegetable shortening. Gradually add 1½ cups sugar; cream together thoroughly. Add 1½ tsps. vanilla. Add 4 eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Sift together 3 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour, 1½ tsps. soda, and ½ tsp. salt. Add alternately with 1 cup milk, beating until smooth. Blend in chocolate mixture. Pour into 3 round 9-inch cake pans, lined on bottoms with paper. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) for 25 to 30 minutes. Cool. Frost with Seven Minute Frosting, tinted green and flavored with mint extract. Let frosting set. Then melt 2 squares Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate with 2 tsps. butter over hot water. Prince Karim is seen at his coronation ceremony four years ago, when he became the fourth Aga Khan at 19.

THE WORLD'S MOST ELIGIBLE BACHELOR

EVERY DAY a tall young Englishman, profoundly good-looking, steps from his Swiss chalet into the snow, lays a prayer rug on the snow, and, with a map and a pair of compasses, makes certain calculations. Then he prays.

By the Moslem faith, if you look toward Mecca you find it, and from the mountaintops of Switzerland the young Aga Khan, spiritual leader of 12 million Ismaili Moslems, was applying himself to his daily religious devotions.

This odd contrast of the Moslem faith being practiced in a Swiss canton, of the head of a great religious movement praying in the mountain snows while his followers pray on sand amid palm trees is characteristic of Prince Karim, Aga Khan IV, the 49th Imam of the Ismailis, the 23-year-old son of the late Aly Khan. From his grandfather, Karim inherited a spiritual empire; from his father he inherited physical beauty; from both he inherited a sense of paradox.

For the first half of this century, Europeans tried to reconcile the Aga Khan with his love of horse racing, champagne, and pretty women, with his unique position in the Moslem religion. They also had to reconcile Aly Khan's reputation as a girl-chasing playboy with the special reverence the Ismailis gave him.

But none of this is as extraordinary as the double image of Karim, on the one hand a typical member of the younger International Set, skiing, water-skiing, dating pretty girls, and driving fast cars, and, on the other hand, a devout Moslem in whom the blood of Mahomet himself flows, and to whom millions of Moslems turn for both material and spiritual guidance.

Cleverly avoiding the gossip columns which dogged his father and grandfather in their love affairs, Karim has still managed to date some of Europe's most beautiful girls. The latest, Annoushka von Meks, is a 17-year-old Parisienne, daughter of a Russian dressmaker of German origin.

He has tended to find safety in numbers since the break-up of his first major romance with the Mexican heiress, Sylvia Casablancas. Sylvia, with her wild and impulsive ways, was just a little too much for the quiet Karim. She stormed out of his life after a spectacular quarrel. "He is too possessive and jealous," she said. "I don't want to become the wife of an Oriental potentate."

No doubt Karim was hurt by Sylvia who went on to have several front-page romances, but he soon got over it. He possesses a certain innocence in these matters which is its own protection. "I don't know girls very well," he told me once, before he became the Aga Khan, "but those I do know are all good friends—platonic friends."

His attachment to Annoushka is serious, but, as with all girls he has dated, he runs into a basic problem, and one that grows more severe as the years go by. Annoushka von Meks is a Christian, and the old Aga Khan asked him to marry a Moslem.

Annoushka could adopt the Moslem faith, but that was not what the old man had in mind. He wanted Karim to marry an Asiatic. Why the Aga Khan, who had two European wives, did not want Karim to do the same is a question that highlights one of the great problems of Karim's life. The fact is that, before he died, the Aga Khan saw that narrow nationalism, which he personally detested, was becoming the greatest emotional force in the world. Among his people, anti-Europeanism is strong. Even the old Aga Khan was hurt by it, although he was 100 percent Asiatic, having been born in Karachi of Persian parentage. Only if Karim, whose mother is English, marries within his own people, regardless of love, can he escape the threat of an "Asia for the Asiatics" reaction.

KARIM IS NO FOOL. His feeling for Annoushka is something he will work out in his own way. In the meantime, he takes his religious duties with great seriousness. As head of the Ismailis and a descendant of the Prophet, he is a king without a country, his followers scattered in groups through India, Pakistan, Iran, Uganda, Kenya, Zanzibar, and even Russia and China.

He spends six months of each year touring his territories and giving counsel, turning for advice to the wise elders of the sect. He speaks Urdu, Arabic, and several Indian dialects. His reign is completely personal. He may be asked for advice on how to buy a house, plant rice, convert dollars, repudiate a faithless wife, or he may receive requests to recommend a good school or a surgeon.

After a tour of his people, Karim always returns to Switzerland and the snow. "I can relax in the snow and contemplate," he says. Here he rises between 7:30 and 8, works until lunch, after which he skis. Evening is for entertaining his friends. Karim loves the company of attractive young people, and he is a particular friend of Prince Rainier and Princess Grace.

Life at his Swiss chalet, the Chateau de l'Horizon, has its complications because of the French newspapermen who skulk outside the house or hover offshore in boats, with telephoto cameras. Karim is careful that girl friends who stay with him are always chaperoned.

Guests at the Chateau de l'Horizon usually meet for a late breakfast and then, while Karim works, swim in the pool or the Mediterranean. In the afternoon Karim joins them for water-skiing or for a drive through the gorgeous Riviera countryside. In the evenings they are likely to set out for some intimate and noisy night club in Saint Tropez, or to some colorful restaurant.

Karim must be the most athletic religious leader in the world. Last January, Karim had a trial run with British skiers aspiring to places on the Olympic team. On the giant slalom, he zipped in and out of 47 tricky "gates" (as the spaces between the poles are called), making the trip in 126.5 seconds, and coming in third. But he was due for a disappointment. He was not named to the team but invited to join the No. 2 squad. Disappointed, he refused.

KARIM DID not expect to become the Aga Khan IV. He, like the rest of the world, thought that Aly Khan, his father, would assume that mantle. But one of the most impressive aspects of Karim's personality is his great sense of responsibility in all things. When the old Aga Khan bequeathed the leadership to him and made him the 49th Imam of the Ismailis, even though he was only 19, he accepted the position without question. "I shall begin my duties at once," he said to the Ismaili chiefs who were waiting for him when he left his grandfather's house.

Karim had always idolized his father, and his death last summer was a tremendous blow. But without questioning he took over his father's interests. He sought out the distracted Bettina, the French model who had been Aly's constant companion over the years, and told her he would continue to look after her.

On only one issue has he veered from the wishes of the old Aga Khan. In his testament, the Aga Khan stated that Karim should turn to his widow, the Begum, for advice on financial matters, a condition which would have made the Begum head of the family, controlling an incalculable fortune left by the Aga Khan, estimated at 2 billion dollars.

But Karim knew that the Ismailis resented the Begum. To them she was still the little bourgeois French girl, Yvette Labrousse, brought up a Catholic, a milliner from Lyons, who once paraded publicly in a swim suit to become Miss France of 1930.

Backed by his elders, Karim gradually edged the Begum out of his affairs. Today, she lives alone in the Villa Yakymour, the sumptuous Riviera home left her by the Aga Khan. Although it is only a few miles from the Chateau de l'Horizon, the Begum and Karim rarely meet, and are on the coldest of speaking terms. The Begum appears seldom in public and is a very unhappy woman.

For Karim, on the other hand, the future looks reasonably optimistic. He has to solve many problems, the problem of his marriage, the problem of his place in the world. But he takes his time and has an Oriental patience. "It is a long and lonely task for such a young man," his mother, the former Joan Yarde-Buller, said when he became the Aga Khan, "but he has the courage to do it."

Life at his Swiss chalet, the Chateau de l'Horizon, has its complications because of the French newspapermen who skulk outside the house or hover offshore in boats, with telephoto cameras. Karim is careful that girl friends who stay with him are always chaperoned.

Guests at the Chateau de l'Horizon usually meet for a late breakfast and then, while Karim works, swim in the pool or the Mediterranean. In the afternoon Karim joins them for water-skiing or for a drive through the gorgeous Riviera countryside. In the evenings they are likely to set out for some intimate and noisy night club in Saint Tropez, or to some colorful restaurant.

Karim must be the most athletic religious leader in the world. Last January, Karim had a trial run with British skiers aspiring to places on the Olympic team. On the giant slalom, he zipped in and out of 47 tricky "gates" (as the spaces between the poles are called), making the trip in 126.5 seconds, and coming in third. But he was due for a disappointment. He was not named to the team but invited to join the No. 2 squad. Disappointed, he refused.

KARIM DID not expect to become the Aga Khan IV. He, like the rest of the world, thought that Aly Khan, his father, would assume that mantle. But one of the most impressive aspects of Karim's personality is his great sense of responsibility in all things. When the old Aga Khan bequeathed the leadership to him and made him the 49th Imam of the Ismailis, even though he was only 19, he accepted the position without question. "I shall begin my duties at once," he said to the Ismaili chiefs who were waiting for him when he left his grandfather's house.

Karim had always idolized his father, and his death last summer was a tremendous blow. But without questioning he took over his father's interests. He sought out the distracted Bettina, the French model who had been Aly's constant companion over the years, and told her he would continue to look after her.

On only one issue has he veered from the wishes of the old Aga Khan. In his testament, the Aga Khan stated that Karim should turn to his widow, the Begum, for advice on financial matters, a condition which would have made the Begum head of the family, controlling an incalculable fortune left by the Aga Khan, estimated at 2 billion dollars.

But Karim knew that the Ismailis resented the Begum. To them she was still the little bourgeois French girl, Yvette Labrousse, brought up a Catholic, a milliner from Lyons, who once paraded publicly in a swim suit to become Miss France of 1930.

Backed by his elders, Karim gradually edged the Begum out of his affairs. Today, she lives alone in the Villa Yakymour, the sumptuous Riviera home left her by the Aga Khan. Although it is only a few miles from the Chateau de l'Horizon, the Begum and Karim rarely meet, and are on the coldest of speaking terms. The Begum appears seldom in public and is a very unhappy woman.

For Karim, on the other hand, the future looks reasonably optimistic. He has to solve many problems, the problem of his marriage, the problem of his place in the world. But he takes his time and has an Oriental patience. "It is a long and lonely task for such a young man," his mother, the former Joan Yarde-Buller, said when he became the Aga Khan, "but he has the courage to do it."

Bubble Baubles

By Evelyn Pickering

Make little men, animals, or other designs from white or colored tissue paper. Cut each one with arms or paws raised above the head. Stars with points or trees with branches are fun to use, too.

Then blow a soap bubble and touch the hands or other upraised point of the tissue paper figures lightly to the bottom of the bubble. It is fun to watch the floating figure sail away and disappear into space.
